McNamara Set Longevity Record

Tireless Leader or Cold Computer?

WASHINGTON (AP) — His supporters call him the best defense chief in U.S. history and find him a tireless, brilliant leader, a warm family man and friend.

His critics scornfully dub him "Supermac" and portray him as cold and machine-like, a cost-conscious human computer without a heart.

History will know Robert Strange McNamara, 51, as the man who set a record for longevity in one of the world's toughest jobs—U.S. defense secretary.

His impending resignation from the defense post to head the World Bank was learned Monday night at a time when McNamara is less than two months away from completing seven years on the job. None of his seven predecessors served even five years in the post.

Plucked by President John F. Kennedy from the presidency of the Ford Motor Co. to be defense secretary, McNamara remained at the post under Kennedy's successor, President Johnson.

He gave up Ford stock that would have earned him an estimated $3 million the day he accepted the $35,000-a-year defense post. "How many millions does a man need?" he asked.

Few persons ever questioned McNamara's executive ability or his devotion to a job in which he often spent 18-hour work days.

Pentagon Complaints But from Capitol Hill often came grumblings that he showed inadequate deference to members of Congress. And there were complaints from the Pentagon that, unlike some of his predecessors, he only listened to advice from the military instead of accepting it as gospel.

Part of the public McNamara image is his ability to answer questions by producing long strings of statistics without reference to notes.

That and his almost spartan image—the hair combed straight back, the rimless glasses, the lean body—seem to lend credence to charges he's a human computer.

But without feelings? His close friends in and out of government vehemently deny the charge.

They cite his devotion to his wife of nearly 28 years, Margaret, and their three children, Margaret Elizabeth, Kathleen and Robert C. McNamara.

They recall the family skiing and hiking excursions where the usually reserved defense chief was photographed wearing a rare expression of outright exuberance.

McNamara was born in San Francisco June 9, 1916, the son of Robert James and Nell Strange McNamara. His father managed a wholesale shoe factory.

He was graduated from the University of California at Berkeley in 1937, winning Phi Beta Kappa honors as a sophomore. Two years later he received a master's degree in business administration at Harvard.

After working briefly for a West Coast accounting firm, McNamara taught for three years at Harvard, resigning to enter the Air Force.

After leaving the service in 1946 he joined Ford and rose rapidly through the huge company's executive ranks to become president in 1960.

Then he came to Washington and a job to which he brought a decision-making capacity he once described as:

"Having examined the alternatives, I have no hesitancy in making a decision. Once made it doesn't worry me. It's the problem of finding the right approach to an objective that worries me, that keeps me awake and makes me irritable at home."

Picked by Johnson for Post; Connally May be Secretary's Successor

BY FRANK CORMIER

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Robert Strange McNamara, for nearly seven years manager of the world's largest military establishment, is resigning to become president of the World Bank. McNamara's formal selection as the $40,000-a-year president of the international lending institution will come Wednesday when the bank's 20 directors meet at its Washington headquarters.

He will succeed another American, George D. Woods.

With President Johnson's approval, McNamara, 51, was secretly nominated for the bank presidency last week. The nomination was made by the United States, which traditionally plays the nominating role because it is the largest single financial contributor to the bank.

Early Next Year Woods' term expires at the end of this year but he has an interim appointment to serve an additional year unless a successor is named earlier. There was no word on just when McNamara would take over, and so it could be early next year—or not for months.

McNamara's impending departure immediately raised speculation that he would be replaced in the Defense post by one of Johnson's closest political allies, Texas Gov. John B. Connally, a former secretary of the Navy. But Connally, who recently announced he would not seek re-election as governor, said Monday there was no truth to such rumors.

There had been recurrent reports in recent months that McNamara was anxious to leave his Cabinet post, which has often demanded working days of 12 and 18 hours, sometimes seven days a week.

A former president of the Ford Motor Co., McNamara has through an agreement or negotiation with the U.S. government been Defense chief since the inauguration of President John F. Kennedy in January 1961. No other man has held the post that long.

Cabinet Favorites When Johnson became President four years ago, he quickly made it apparent that McNamara and Secretary of State Dean Rusk were particular favorites of his within the Cabinet he inherited from Kennedy.

They became key presidential advisers managing the enlarged war in Vietnam.

With Vietnam now a major item of public controversy and with a presidential election barely 11 months away, it was believed Johnson would have preferred to keep his top war leadership team intact. But he

Turkish Ships Circle Cyprus

War Threats Continue as Negotiators Trade Plans

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — Turkish warships circled off the Cyprus coast for two hours today, then disappeared in a fog. In Athens, a Greek Foreign Ministry spokesman said the crisis between Greece and Turkey over this island will be clarified before the day is out with either an agreement or possible war.

The statement by the spokesman said the Turkish ships steamed slowly toward the northwest, made a leisurely circle, headed back from where they came and disappeared out of sight under a light fog.

The exercise appeared to be a new threat of force, to pressure Greece in the tense diplomatic negotiations with Turkey.

The ships appeared on the horizon at 8:40 a.m. Shortly before two Turkish air force jets zoomed low over Nicosia and circled the city three times at low height.

Ankara and Athens appeared to be near agreement on measures to avert a war between them over Cyprus. Foreign observers in the Turkish capital suggested that the naval ships were maneuvering off Cyprus to put pressure on the Athens government.

Discounting the renewed fears of invasion, sources in Ankara said the Turkish flotilla consisted of six destroyers, two submarines and other smaller ships. But troops and other personnel carriers remained in the south Turkish port of Mersin.

But in Ankara, an informant said the ships were conducting "a normal exercise."

U.N. peace force observers at Kyrenia, 15 miles north of Nicosia, said between six to eight ships were within Cyprus' 12-mile limit of territorial waters. When the line of vessels ap-

U.N. Decisive in Banning Peking

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The U.N. General Assembly voted decisively today to keep Red China out of the United Nations for another year.

The 122-nation assembly defeated by a vote of 58-45 a resolution by Communist Albania that would have turned the representation question over to a committee for study prior to reporting to next year's assembly.

The assembly decided that a two-thirds majority was needed. A similar measure failed last year. The issue has been put to a vote in the assembly since 1961. Peking came closest in 1965 when the balloting resulted in a

Rookie Breaks Up Peddlers

Patrolman Joins Marijuana Set

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex. (AP) — A rookie policeman told today how he infiltrated a group of marijuana-smoking high school students in an attempt to halt the peddling of narcotics to teen-agers.

Patrolman Glenn Boggs, 23, said he enrolled in a Corpus Christi high school, got himself kicked out twice for cutting classes and faked "getting high" on marijuana to win the youths' confidence.

13 Arrested He compiled a list of 200 teen-agers he said he observed smoking marijuana or taking pills. Thirteen persons, one an adult and the others under 21, have been charged as dealers suspected of selling to teen-agers as a result of his investigation. Police say they expect more arrests.

Boggs said he spent two months and two weeks with the teen-age set.

"Boy, those people were real paranoid," the officer said in an interview. "The first buy I made, the peddler said 'hey, man, are you a narc' (federal agent)? I replied yeah, man, I am—twice on Sundays and every day of the week.

"That's the way most of them were—suspicious of everything, but they would always make the sale."

He attended marijuana parties and faked smoking by sucking around his fingers, breathing deep and cupping his hands, he related. Sometimes he slept on a nearby island with the teen-agers or at their parents' homes.

"Some of those kids have all the money in the world," Boggs said. "They were just hanging around the marijuana because it's some kind of a status symbol. They aren't hippies.

"This (marijuana) is their life. People can say it's not addictive or bad for you, but every one of them I've known and dealt with—well that's all they think and talk about."

He said the students made trips to buy marijuana in Mexico and sold it for $4 to $6 for a matchbox of the stuff or 50 cents for a cigarette-style smoke.

Boggs said marijuana was a "24-hour-a-day deal with them," and they even smoked it in the restrooms at school.

Not for Profit Boggs said most of the teen-agers would not sell marijuana for a profit but supplied their friends in an attempt to gain status.

"They just wanted to turn everybody on," he said. "They want to turn the world on."

His masquerade came to an end when he ran into an old Navy buddy who told the teen-agers Boggs was a policeman.

"I still made three deals after he told everybody I was a narc," he related.

Battle of Dak To ... An Analysis

Reds More Interested in Propaganda Than Victory

By JOHN T. WHEELER

SAIGON (AP) — The largest and bloodiest sustained battle of the war around the highlands town of Dak To apparently was set off by the Communists more with an eye toward U.S. public opinion than for any long-range tactical advantage, a senior U.S. Command officer says.

The three-week battle cost 287 American lives and left 1,641 North Vietnamese dead on the battleground by U.S. count.

In surveying it the U.S. Command can find strong reasons for both optimism and pessimism.

The senior U.S. officer, discussing this and other recent battles, said the pattern tended to reinforce a theory long held by the U.S. Command.

Main Objective The Communists long ago decided they could not grab and hold strategic real estate in the face of American firepower and mobility. Their main objective then became to kill as many Americans as possible in steadily bigger battles. They hope to stir further antiwar sentiment in the United States and, in through a collapse of will on the American home front, U.S. officials believe.

In recent months the Communists, picking the time and place for the big battles, have emphasized border areas where their supply lines are shortest and escape to sanctuaries in Cambodia and Laos is easy.

The big battles pull American battalions away from pacification areas to meet such major or racial riots, arson and looting threats. Months of pacification spread from the island city of Penang to the mainland.

A police spokesman said the toll from five days of riots and disturbances was 17 dead and 196 injured, half of the latter seriously enough to be hospitalized.

There is also speculation at the top U.S. Command levels that the Communists are experimenting with new infantry tactics built around such heavy weapons as large rockets and empy could have seized the highland and the town and held them even two, three or four days it would have been a very high-powered propaganda victory and hold Dak To or other small towns around which recent big battles have been fought.

High-Powered Victory Officers discount a theory that the Communists wanted to take high-powered propaganda victory and hold Dak To or other small towns around which recent big battles have been fought.

British Livestock Epidemic Hikes Prices, Stops Activities

LONDON (AP) — Britain's events if it lasts as long as epidemic of foot and mouth disease which has ravaged more than 1,000 farms in the past five weeks began hitting Britons in the pocketbook and other ways today.

Meat prices at London's giant Smithfield Market jumped 3 to 8 cents a pound. The government ordered a ban on horse racing, bringing a multimillion dollar industry to a halt. It also closed youth hostels and canceled troop movements around the London suburban areas.

Motorcycle races were called off in infected areas and farmers in Wales demanded a halt to all soccer games.

Farmers contend that anything that brings crowds together can help spread the virus.

Close Ports
In Ireland, President John Feely of the Irish Creamery Milk Suppliers Association, demanded the closing of all Irish ports and air terminals.

The move banning horse racing is unprecedented. Farmers have been demanding it for days. Trainers, owners and jockeys will lose heavily, not to speak of bookmakers and betting shops.

No date was set for a resumption of racing but the ban will mean cancellation of nearly 30.

Soviet Drugging of Envoys Protested

MOSCOW (AP) — Five or six men attacked and searched the American and British military attaches in Moscow after they were served apparently drugged wine on a trip this month near the Romanian border, the two embassies charged in protest notes to the Soviet government.

An American spokesman said today the Soviet reply "was not considered satisfactory" and that further protests are being considered in Washington and London.

The U.S. Embassy and the British Foreign Office said the incident occurred Nov. 17 when picked the site for the battle, they had to give themselves the best protection possible.

The timing probably was geared to the final days of the monsoon. Soon the weather will not hamper American fighter bombers and airborne artillery spotters.

The Loc Ninh offensive may be the last Communist move north of Saigon for the same reason. The Allies can be expected to mount major offensives in war zones C and D beginning in December when the dry season will not impede armor or aerial help.

If experience holds, the Communists will counterpunch hard at isolated units but will duck long battles putting them at a severe disadvantage due to full use of American firepower and mobility.

Over the months fighting at the demilitarized zone has been the roughest of the war. This may flare again before the full northeast monsoon next month floods the northern region, U.S. military sources suspect. The next major continuous fighting there probably will come when the monsoon weakens in the spring but before clear weather returns.

Millionaire Gets Year's Jail Term

NEW YORK (AP) — Millionaire industrialist Louis E. Wolfson was sentenced today to one year in prison and fined $100,000 for willfully violating the Securities Act of 1933. He was charged with selling 600,000 unregistered shares of Continental Enterprises, Inc. for $3.5 million.

Elkin B. Gerbert, a codefendant and long-time business associate, was sentenced to six months and fined $50,000.

The sentences were handed down by federal Judge Edmund L. Palmieri, who had denied motions for a new trial by defendants.

The papers were returned after about an hour and the charges did not suffer serious indictment handed down a year ago.

Tobacco Institute Raps List Rating Cigarettes

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Tobacco Institute, spokesman for the nation's tobacco industry, discounts as meaningless also questioned the validity of new government report listing the tar and nicotine content of 59 kinds and sizes of cigarettes.

The report said Marvel filter cigarettes had the least tar and nicotine. It said the brand with the most tar content was the nonfilter, king-size Chesterfield, and the one with the most nicotine was the same type Raleigh.

The Tobacco Institute said the rankings meant nothing because there is "no scientifically established relationship between tar and nicotine levels and human health."

The institute added that "smoking to a 30 millimeter butt length, as recommended by most tobacco companies and two of the FTC commissioners, should have been the basis for the test."

And, the institute said, while there are more than 150 kinds and sizes of cigarettes made in this country, only 59 were tested.

Many Questions Raised Resignation of McNamara Leaves U.S. Policies Cloudy

By BOB HORTON
AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara's impending resignation from his key Cabinet post to head the World Bank produces a flock of questions ranging from war policy to politics.

Among the most pertinent: —What if any effect will the resignation have on U.S. policy in Vietnam?

—What are the implications for the 1968 election, in which President Johnson is expected to seek re-election and the Vietnam war appears a key issue?

—Who will succeed the man who served as America's defense chief longer than anyone in history?

Losing Steam
Some Pentagon sources have long contended that McNamara wanted out of the job because he felt he was losing his bounce after nearly seven years in one of the cabinet's—and the world's—most exacting posts. As defense chief he managed an institution with 4.5 million employees, an $80 billion budget and a nuclear capacity that could devastate the earth.

Those who express that view say McNamara would have stepped down long since except for his sense of duty to a nation and a President embroiled in a difficult, widely unpopular war.

They say McNamara stayed on so long only because he felt his resignation during the Vietnam war might have been interpreted as personal opposition to President Johnson's war policy.

Open Split
On the other hand, McNamara has never concealed his disagreement with those U.S. military chiefs and members of Congress who favor further acceleration of the bombing of North Vietnam.

He has made it clear publicly that he believes the bombing, while useful, is of limited value and that the war's outcome depends on ground victories in South Vietnam.

Influence Strong
This year's stepping up of U.S. bombing of the North is viewed in some quarters as evidence that Johnson has begun to listen more to his military advisers than to McNamara.

Some Pentagon officials argue that McNamara's influence with the President has not waned. They point out McNamara has opposed any air attacks on Haiphong Harbor's docks, and they have not been hit.

A clue to many of the questions raised by the resignation could lie in the man President Johnson names to replace McNamara. Certainly, appointment of a person whose views on bombing of the North differ sharply from McNamara's will be interpreted by many as proof that stepped up bombing is imminent.

As of Monday night Pentagon and White House officials would not or could not give a hint as to a probable successor. Most appeared frankly surprised by word of the resignation.

McNamara to Resign Position in Cabinet

did give his personal approval to McNamara's nomination for the presidency of the bank, known formally as The International Bank for Reconstruction and Development.

Wider Bombing
McNamara has been a stalwart public spokesman for Johnson's Vietnam policies. However, it was understood that within the private councils of government, he frequently has advocated restraint in the conduct of the war.

It has also become known in recent months that McNamara and the Joint Chiefs of Staff have disagreed over the question of wider bombing of North Vietnam, with McNamara opposed to substantially extending the list of targets to be hit. But the bombing has been escalated.

When some commentators began referring to Vietnam as "McNamara's war" in 1965, Johnson told friends the label was erroneous. The President said that, to the extent loose labels could be applied, McNamara would have to be cast as dovish, Rusk as hawkish and himself as somewhere in the middle.

Johnson's original admiration for McNamara apparently stemmed from the Defense secretary's strenuous efforts to promote economy within the Pentagon establishment.

The President, in his first weeks in office, worked closely with McNamara in this area and, publicly and privately, lavishly praised his Cabinet aide.

One of McNamara's first major moves as Defense chief was to assert civilian primacy over military leaders in defense matters. It led to reports he wasn't getting along well with some of the generals and admirals.

Beaux Arts a Study in Black and White

Riverview Country Club did itself in black and white at its Beaux Arts Ball Saturday evening. The party, styled along the line of Truman Capote's fashionable New York gala last winter, took up a French theme, with the foods of that nation featured in the 7:30 p.m. dinner.

Guests received masks as they arrived for the 6:30 p.m. cocktail hour. They were invited to wear black and white, or combinations of the two. They entered through an ornate 'arc d' Triomphe' and were caught up in the festive air of a masked ball that made use of the Eiffel Tower in paper as a background decoration.

Home Economist Demonstrates Electronic Oven to Create New World for Home Chef

The family kitchen is never solidly frozen strawberries in However, the heat can be turned on the oven in only two minutes, on at the same time, usually at compared to the usual half hour a high temperature, to bring about browning.

And Monday evening at the Wisconsin-Michigan Power Co., approximately 100 men, women and children, all potential holiday bakers, saw the 'range of tomorrow' that is here today.

Miss Ember Day, home economist with General Electric Co., demonstrated the use of the ultra-modern Versatronic range.

The electronic range not only saves time, stressed the home economist, but it's easy to use, convenient and cool.

"The appliance operates on the principle of microwaves," she explained. "Underneath the oven cavity is a tube which produces the waves which are then directed to the food from an antenna. The waves penetrate the food and the friction of them rubbing against and bouncing off of each other produces heat which cooks the food from within. Cooking time is shortened by about one-third or one-fourth."

Miss Day then thawed a box of solidly frozen strawberries in the oven in only two minutes, on at the same time, usually at compared to the usual half hour a high temperature, to bring about browning. The food is placed on a revolving, solid, circular shelf. It must be baked in glass baking look quite unappetizing, often utensils, for the waves can easily penetrate the glass. "Metal pans will reflect the waves away from the food and into the back of the oven. The oven was designed with a specific amount of metal in it and any more added to it will cause it to malfunction," stated the home economist. "The metal mesh over the window in the door reflects the rays back into the oven, preventing them from penetrating the door and escaping into the room."

Characteristic Browning
Miss Day baked a party bread, explaining that if the food is to receive a characteristic browning, the conventional heat element must be used in addition to the microwaves.

The electronic oven uses no direct heat. Cooked items can be taken from it without hot pads.

Miss Ember Day, General Electric home economist, demonstrated some of the uses of the electronic oven Monday evening at the Wisconsin-Michigan Power Co. The oven operates on the principle of microwaves and food is baked in one-third to one-fourth the time it takes a conventional oven. She baked a party bread in about 20 minutes. Mr. and Mrs. George Sturm

Janet Greeley Wed To John H. Storm

MILWAUKEE — Miss Janet Elizabeth Greeley, daughter of Mrs. Sherwood Lorenz, Clintonville, and George Greeley, Madison, was married Saturday to John Hershey Storm, son of Mrs. Hallas W. Ostrom, La Grange, Ill., and the late John M. Storm.

The bride's father is executive secretary of the Republican Party of Wisconsin. Mr. Storm's father was an associate editor of The Cleveland News and editor of Hospitals magazine.

The couple was married at Immanuel Presbyterian Church, where the Rev. Andrew G. Finne performed the ceremony.

Mrs. Bradley Nielson, Wausau, the bride's sister, served as matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Jeanne Dughie and Miss Judith Graham.

Serving as best man was Sherwood Lorenz, the bride's step-father. Groomsmen were James Saylor and Bruce Oatman. Ushers were Bradley Nielson and Lloyd Watson.

A reception was held at the Pfister Hotel.

The bride, who is employed at the television publicity department of the Columbia Broadcasting System, is a graduate of Carroll College, Waukesha. She was affiliated with Alpha Gamma Delta, a social sorority.

Mr. Storm was graduated from Northwestern University School of Music, Evanston, Ill., and from the University of Tulsa School of Journalism. He has

Give Hairdo

The special pampering of a professional hair styling and shampoo is a welcome Christmas treat for hospital patients, nursing home residents, and other shut-ins.

Interested volunteer groups can help by recruiting willing beauticians to "gift" such women with hair-do's, then furnish needed supplies and perhaps assist with the shampooing.

Pair Observes 50th Wedding Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. George Sturm, 3800 N. Lyndale Drive, will celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary today at a family dinner and a reception at the Darboy Club.

The couple was married at St. Edward Catholic Church. Mr. Sturm was engaged in farming at route 2, Appleton, until his retirement.

The couple's children are Mrs. Richard Pritzl, Menasha; George and Alfred, Neenah; and Mrs. Clifford Ulman, Mrs. Clarence Wittman, Mrs. LeRoy Kurey, Mrs. Glen Griesbach, George and Cyril. They also have 51 grandchildren and five great-grandchildren.

Child's Fine Hair Responds to Care

NEW YORK (AP) — Little rather than a home dryer. A girls' hair, often baby fine, can hair dryer literally makes fine present a number of problems. hair drier and harder to control. And for a special holiday hair-

Jerry Pandora, hair stylist for Breck, Inc., comes up with these tips to help make your daughter's hair more manageable:

Brush her hair gently at least 50 strokes every night, preferably with a natural bristle brush. This removes surface dirt and distributes the natural oils evenly.

Don't wash her hair more than once every 10 days. Frequent shampooing is drying and harmful to baby fine hair, and causes it to be unruly. Use a mild shampoo formulated for children.

Mothers Warned Not to Make Invalids of Asthmatic Children

By JOY MILLER

Some mothers are babying their asthmatic children into lives of chronic invalidism. Dr. Irving H. Itkin, who makes that charge, says: "By not permitting him to join in the usual activities of his age group except during the episodes of illness, a mother may limit her child's ability to adapt later to normal living."

Dr. Itkin is chief of asthma allergy service at National Jewish Hospital at Denver, a free, non-sectarian chronic chest diseases hospital that accepts only hard-to-treat cases. At this hospital child patients play football, basketball and softball, plus calisthenics for an hour a day.

Severity Fluctuates

Asthma in children is a chronic condition which fluctuates in its severity, explains Dr. Itkin. A mother should start early having a child live a normal life between episodes. If she doesn't encourage the child to exercise, the efficiency of the utilization of oxygen will be at a disadvantage, he says.

Asthma, which afflicts about five million people in the United States, is a disease that may attack without warning and feels like a giant hand squeezing the throat and chest, causing gasps and wheezes and fear of choking. It may occur occasionally or it may become continuous. The suffering is severe.

The National Jewish Hospital undertook a study comparing the progress of patients who exercise with those who did not. Exercise, the study showed, was beneficial.

Strikes Any Age

Anyone can get asthma—at any age: a week-old baby or an 80-year-old man who has never been allergic his whole life.

"A patient does get well by himself fairly frequently," says Dr. Itkin. "More get over it by themselves than are fully cured by doctors' treatment. You go to an old folks' home and half the people here will say they had it and got over it."

Then should a mother bother taking her asthmatic child to a doctor?

Yes, says Dr. Itkin—to find out what the causes are. "It's easier to control the first few by causes than to wait until there are so many different ones to the bottle up, so to speak."

gic investigations, although under 1½ years the skin may not be as sensitive to allergies.

"A mother should keep a diary to show the relation between possible causes and the onset of the symptoms—what foods eaten, toys handled, places visited. It's necessary to do this to give clues to explain the symptoms."

Sometimes it's not very practical to use medicine because of the serious side effects, says Dr. Itkin. "If you can avoid the cause—this is best. The next best is hyposensitization by injections. Then, only if the first two have been tried and if the cause can't be identified, is symptomatic medication indicated."

Many people believe asthma is psychosomatic, or emotional, in origin, but Dr. Itkin says this has never been adequately proved.

Dr. Itkin thinks it's better if allergic people don't marry children.

Live Normal Lives

He thinks special schools for most asthmatics is probably overdoing it. They should live normal lives between episodes, which some have only once or twice a year.

Dr. Itkin and Dr. Gardner Middlebrook, then National Jewish Hospital director of research and laboratories, created the first Quantitative Inhalation Challenge Apparatus, a device for detecting and measuring allergens, the substances, to which the allergy sufferer is unusually sensitive. Today the Quicha, as the apparatus is called, is used at the National Jewish Hospital and is being studied at other research centers here and in Canada and Japan.

"I know of other models at universities which have asked to produce it. No one has to ask Marvin Braeger, 222 E. Winneus; it's not patented. I would like to see it in use in more places. It's particularly useful with patients in whom control is difficult because the allergy is hard to identify," says its co-inventor.

Sheila Braeger Parents Tell Engagement Of Daughter

A September wedding is planned by Miss Sheila Braeger and Joel J. Schweitzer. The announcement has been made by her parents, Mrs. Marie Braeger, 609 N. Center St., and Mr. Marvin Braeger, 222 E. Winneus; it's not patented. I would like to see it in use in more places. It's particularly useful with patients in whom control is difficult because the allergy is hard to identify," says its co-inventor.

Royal Footmen Shortage Noted at British Palace

BY TOM REEDY
LONDON (AP) — The progress of modern man has dropped a little sand in the well-oiled gears of Queen Elizabeth's household machinery.

Buckingham Palace acknowledged today it has found it necessary to advertise for a footman.

The honest truth is that not everybody wants to be a servant, not even of Her Majesty, in this day and age.

The advertisement specifies a footman to be 20 to 35 years of age who will be given a three-room apartment with his own bath and kitchen. Salary is never disclosed by the palace.

Palace Demands
The palace demands discreet people, pledges never to disclose what goes on in the queen's private life, and a cast-iron promise not to write any books or newspaper stories even after they quit the service.

The need to advertise isn't exactly a development of this week. It has been done before by agencies representing the palace but the market for the kind of loyal servants needed for the day, suiting but often they sovereign clearly is growing more narrow every year.

The footmen are only part of a staff of around 25 or so who tend doors, handle meals and otherwise keep the royal family properly served. The age requirement for footmen is sheer logic: that walk from the palace kitchen to the breakfast room is about a quarter of a mile. And footmen are what the name implies, they don't sit around, they stand and walk and stand again.

The servants, by and large, are loyal. In an atmosphere of some of their livery, provided are much more relaxed than under previous sovereigns they have a tendency to stay on their jobs. But time takes its toll, some get married and look for other types of employment. Of course, quite a few get married and remain—there's no bar to that.

In the old days, staff recruited replacements through their own network but that practice seems to have died out.

Imaginative Dash
For a change in flavor, add curry powder to stewed tomatoes and heat.

Ann Concurr With Theory; Slams Betrayal of Confidence

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: The reply to the enormously overweight man was an eye opener. You said, "Now that you have surrounded yourself with a fortress of flesh, try to learn, if you can, what you are hiding from."

I have long been convinced that there is something more to obesity than the fact that people enjoy food. My sister-in-law was a slender, beautiful bride — 12 years ago. She was also deeply religious. Shortly after her marriage she told me in the strictest of confidence that sex was repulsive to her and she so hated it that she made up a series of excuses which she uses regularly.

The woman now weighs 250 pounds (she's 5'4") and it makes me sad to look at her. I told my husband I believe his sister has made herself fat as a cow so she will be physically unattractive to her husband in the hope he will leave her alone completely. He says I am crazy. What do you say? — Amateur Shrinker

Dear Ann: I say you might be right. And I also say something else. It was rock bottom to pass on information told to you in confidence. You should be ashamed of yourself for betraying your sister-in-law.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: The letter from Wabash Blues is very much like my story. I also married a divorced man whose wife had walked out and left a little boy nearly three years old. If Wabash thinks she's a nervous wreck now, tell her to wait a few years.

My husband always took the boy's part against teachers, neighbors, me — anyone who criticized him. He never saw anything wrong with Denny.

When we began to get calls from the juvenile authorities, I took the boy for counseling. Three different counselors said the same thing, "There is nothing wrong with the child. It is his dad. He is ruining the boy by giving in to him, fighting his battles and making excuses for him."

I tried to get my husband to see what he was doing but he accused me of being jealous of the child, so I gave up.

Today Denny is in prison. He starts the second year of a five-year term in December. The boy is only 17 and his life is already ruined. Please keep hammering away at foolish parents who think they are being good to their kids when they let them have whatever they want — Tried But Failed

Dear Tried: Thank you for your letter. The sin of this father is indeed being visited upon his son.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a secretary who discovered by accident that my married boss is having a torrid affair with a woman in this office. When I learned what was going on I lost all respect for him.

This situation has not affected my work, but every time I see these two together it makes me sick to my stomach, even though I realize it is none of my business.

My boss is not aware that I know what's going on and I wouldn't dream of telling him. Should I stay and pretend I am deaf, dumb and blind or should I leave? — Miss Inbetween

Dear In: Unless you can persuade your stomach that it is none of your business, my advice is to leave. It's not worth ulcers, Dearie.

Dennis R. Schmidt

Appleton Airman Killed Aboard Ship In Golf of Tonkin

Naval Airman I.C. Dennis R. Schmidt, 19, 2109 Carpenter St., was killed in action in Vietnam early Monday night, according to notification his parents received early today.

Schmidt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Schmidt, died while the aircraft carrier, on which he was stationed, the U.S.S. Coral Seas, was launching strikes from the Gulf of Tonkin against North Vietnam, according to a Naval officer who notified his parents.

His father reported that Dennis, who had said in a letter about two weeks ago that he was in charge of a hangar elevator, had apparently been caught in a draft caused by the jet turbine and prop airplanes. The victim reportedly had mentioned the danger in the letter.

Details Expected
His parents said he died at about 7:50 p.m. and expect details in a telegram from military officials later today.

The airman was on his second tour of duty in Vietnam and was scheduled to return to the states in February. He had boarded the carrier for Vietnam July 29. His first tour began July 29.

Y's Men Set Up Tree Lot

Profits From Sales Help Send Children To Summer Camps

For about the 15th year in a row, the Y's Men of Appleton have set up a Christmas tree lot to help send youngsters to camp.

This year the lot is located at 1100 E. Wisconsin Avenue, near the viaduct and will go into operation Dec. 2. It will be open from 10:30 a.m. to 9 p.m. weekdays and from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. on weekends.

Preparations, requiring hundreds of man hours, begin early in the year when the men go out to Waupaca and Antigo plantations to pick out the trees and tag them for later cutting.

Cutting of the pines starts in October. The balsam and spruce trees, however, are cut just prior to shipment. All trees must be bundled carefully to prevent breakage in shipment.

This month it took many more man hours as members went to the plantations to load the trees while others volunteered their free time to set up and wire the lot. Times also had to be scheduled so the lot is staffed at all times.

The types of trees available include Norway, white and Scotch Pine, single and double needle balsams, spruce and a selection of wild balsams.

Part of the money from the sales helps improve the camp site.

VTE-12 Okays Appraisal of Equipment

Sirek Also Told To Negotiate for Building Rental

William Sirek, Vocational, Technical and Adult (VTE-12) school director, was authorized Monday by the VTE-12 board to enter into arrangement with municipalities to hire an expert to appraise the equipment in the satellite vocational schools.

Sirek also was authorized to meet with officials of cities which now own vocational facilities, to discuss renting the school plants.

According to Sirek, the total value on equipment purchased since 1957 at the Oshkosh school comes to $92,485 and about $90,000 at Appleton. However, federal and state equity in this equipment totals around $60,000 at each of the schools.

"This is where the difficulty will come in," said Sirek, "because we have very few records of purchases prior to this time and there is quite a lot of equipment which was purchased before 1957."

In Full Control
He also added that the vocational district already owns a part of the equipment by virtue of state and federal aids. One party must be in full control of the property.

Sirek was asked by a board member whether it would be wise to buy now because in three years, when the new central facility is built, the equipment might be obsolete. He replied that not only would the school be able to use a great deal of the present equipment, but that much of the obsolete machinery could be traded in.

"Even if we would decide to only lease it, we would still need an appraiser to tell us what it is worth," Sirek added.

Are Honor-Bound
"We certainly are honor-bound to buy it from the cities, who may not have any use for it but

Transportation of Private School Pupils Works Well

Bordini Gets VTE-12 Job In Research

Kaukauna School Director to Take New Post Jan. 1

Dominic Bordini, who has been the director of Kaukauna Vocational School for the past 13 years, Monday night was appointed assistant director of research and development for Vocational, Technical and Adult (VTE-12) district school by the board.

In his new position, which he will assume Jan. 1, the director will be involved with plans for the central facility. He will also write educational specifications for the district program.

A native of Hurley, Bordini attended Ironwood Junior College in Michigan, later receiving his bachelor's degree from Stout State University.

After graduation he taught in Michigan for one year and for the Navy Air Corps in Chicago for 3½ years. In 1945 he came to Kaukauna as an instructor and in 1954 was appointed director.

While in Kaukauna, Bordini received his masters degree in vocational education from Stout and has additional credits from the University of Wisconsin.

In his new position he will work under William Sirek, VTE-12 director.

Firemen Called When Oil Tank Springs Leak

Appleton firemen were summoned to the home of Mrs. O. W. Luebben, 1934 N. Harriman St., Monday after fuel oil spilled from a leaky tank onto her basement floor.

An oil absorbing material was used to get some of the fuel off the floor, and firemen using water flushed down the remainder.

Number of Students Getting Bus Service Smaller Than Expected

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — In spite of its controversial background, the new state-sponsored program of providing public school transportation service for private and parochial school pupils where such service is extended by school boards to public school pupils is working out well, according to the head of the state school system.

William C. Kahl, state superintendent of public instruction, said he expects no substantial changes in the new legislation in the immediate future.

"It is working out reasonably well," he said, contradicting those legislators who worried

Public school transportation of Fox Cities parochial students who live at least two miles from their school and outside the city limits will go into effect Jan. 1.

about difficult administrative problems that might attend the new service when they authorized it earlier in the year following the adoption of an amendment to the state constitution to permit the expenditure of state funds to support such a program.

Must Be Reasonable
"There is a general understanding among the persons involved that they must be reasonable while we adjust to the new law," he added.

When the legislature earlier in the year settled down to the task of writing an act implementing the referendum mandate in favor of universal public transportation of elementary and high school pupils under distance eligibility rules, Kahl estimated that the ratio of service to non-public school service would be approximately equal to that for public school students. That figure was put at about 110,000 additional passengers in an advisory note to the legislature.

Actually the total of additional school bus riders under the new act thus far is only about half of that estimate, or slightly less than 53,000.

Several Reasons
Several reasons are attributed for the lower total. A major cause is the fact that the legislature gave city school districts until January 1, 1968, to comply with the new law, although it gave them the right to provide such service on their own volition before that time.

Another reason for the lower ratio of increase in school bus riders is continuing decline in private and parochial school enrollments. The total of elementary and high school enrollments in non-public schools this year is put at 250,000, against 264,000 last year, and 272,900 in 1965. Some state school observers believe the decline in the non-public school enrollments is likely to continue.

Under the earlier law, transportation was required for public school pupils living more than 1½ miles from school.

Board Tours Roosevelt Junior High

Discuss Classroom Shortages With Faculty Members

Appleton School Board members received a firsthand look at classroom space limitations Monday night which are necessitating plans for $750,000 additions at Wilson and Roosevelt junior high schools in the district's five-year capital improvement program.

The tour, which came before the board meeting, was only of Roosevelt, a structural twin to Wilson, and 32 faculty members discussed classroom space restrictions with board members.

The capital improvement program has been tentatively approved by the city and actual details of the long-range plan will be handled cooperatively by the school advisory committee and city officials, according to William Spears, superintendent.

Included in the $750,000 addition for each junior high are a library, gymnasium for physical education and one classroom each for science, art, shop and music.

Jackson Elementary School, because it is adjacent to Roosevelt, was included in the 2½-hour tour.

Teacher Contracts
In other business, Spears told board members that the new state law requires teacher contracts to be issued by March 15 and returned by April 15. He said this gives teachers, who in the past received contracts April 1, an extra 15 days to decide whether they will sign.

The law states that a teacher who is under contract for a certain period with one district

Appleton Is Not Alone in Tax Increase

LaFollette Letter Blames State Aids for Local Hikes

Appleton is not alone when it comes to increasing property taxes in 1968, according to Atty. Gen. Bronson LaFollette.

In a letter received today by Mayor George Buckley LaFollette said a survey showed the increases in various cities throughout the state "were attributed largely to an inadequate return of state aids to the cities."

Appleton was among several cities responding to a recent inquiry by LaFollette on local property tax increases.

The rate for Appleton for 1968 will be up $7.64 per $1,000 assessed valuation.

State Aids Formula
"Responses from other cities throughout the state demonstrated a consistent pattern of local tax increases," LaFollette told Buckley.

Speaking specifically of the state aids formulas, which Appleton and other members of the Alliance of Cities have been attempting to have the Legislature change, LaFollette in commenting on the rate increases said:

"This apparently reflects an executive decision to shift the burden of spending to the local units of government and thus avoid a state tax increase."

Cities Short Changed
Ronald Roberts who felt a study of city urban development plans have been complaining that the Legislature "short-changed" be made before the name cities this year in coming up change was made.

Contracts Needed For Pipeline Land

Appleton to Start Action to Get Sites Enroute to Lake Winnebago

Legal proceedings will be initiated soon by the City of Appleton to get possession of two pieces of property required for the Lake Winnebago water pipeline, it was learned today.

City Atty. David Geenen and Public Works Director Frank Keuler conferred on the matter Monday at city hall.

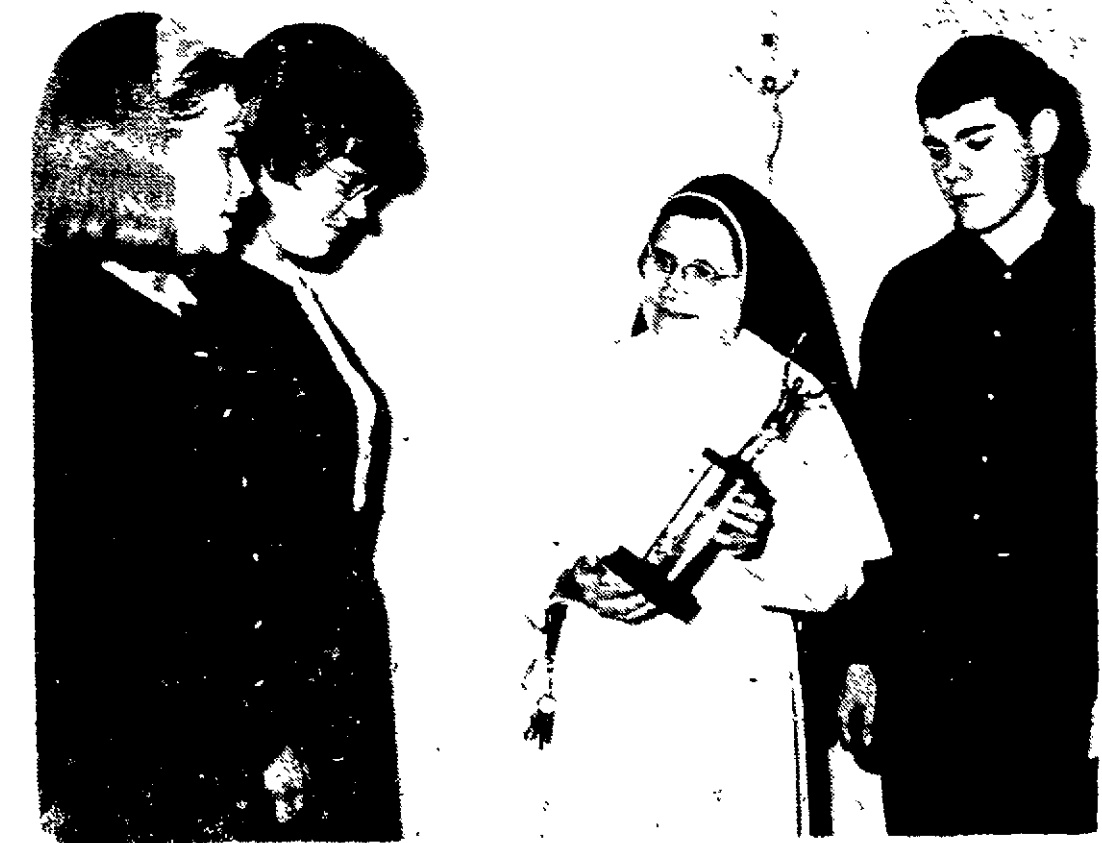

City officials are hoping a second federal grant for water plant expansion will be received from the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD).

Temporary Block
Until further federal aid is received, the $4.5 million water expansion project will be blocked from getting into the actual construction stage.

Previously, the city received million dollar additions to the water assurances of getting $392,000 in federal monies for the pipeline Alford, Burdick and Howsen, which will extend from the plant, south on Oneida Street, to the lake.

One of the two properties needed by the city is the site of the proposed pumping station off the shore of Lake Winnebago. Several other tracts required for the pipeline right-of-way already have been contracted for by the city.

City officials have made recent inquiries into the status of the $600,000 grant being sought from HUD for the plant project. Keuler said it is hoped to advertise for bids and award contracts in the spring. He estimated the construction project would take from a year to 18 months.

Four Monday Accidents Small Boy Injured When Struck by Car

A young Appleton boy who was struck by a car was one of five persons injured in three accidents on Appleton streets Monday.

Troy J. Plass, 5, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald R. Plass, 1500 N. Appleton St., was taken to Appleton Memorial Hospital by his mother after he was struck by a car driven by Earl A. Helser, 76, 1523 N. Oneida St., about 3:30 p.m. Monday. The accident occurred in the 100 block of E. Brewster St.

Police said the boy suffered severe mouth cuts, abrasions to his upper lip and chin, and a bruise on his stomach. Helser was westbound on Brewster when the boy reportedly darted from in front of a parked auto into the path of his car.

Minor Injuries
John R. Bodde, 37, 513 N. Appleton St., suffered minor injuries about 8:45 p.m. Monday when his car and one driven by Joe M. Dykstra, 38, 3310 E. Northland Ave., collided at W. Franklin and N. Locust Streets. Police said the Bodde car was westbound and the Dykstra auto was traveling south on Locust.

Three persons suffered minor injuries in an accident late Monday morning at S. Madison and E. Lincoln Streets. Cars involved were driven by Maynard L. Fox, 54, Green Bay, and Mary E. Reynolds, 730 E. Fremont St. Police said the Fox car was southbound on Madison and the Reynolds auto was eastbound on Lincoln.

Injured were Mrs. Maynard Fox, who hurt her right knee; Mrs. Leo VandenBrandt, 821 E. Fremont St., a passenger in the Fox car, with right knee and rib injuries, and Mrs. Reynolds, who complained of a neck injury.

Appleton with its 9 above during the night, and its 23 high Monday afternoon, was luckier than Superior-Duluth which reached 2 below zero; Rhinelander with 1 below; Park Falls with 1 above; Eau Claire and Wausau 6 above and Green Bay 8.

Lucky Milwaukee citizens were pampered with a low of only 15 and Beloit's 27 was the highest of the day.

A light snow fell along Lake Superior, but most of the remainder of Wisconsin was sunny.

Thanksgiving Clothing drives to help the needy around the world, were conducted in Appleton by all denominations. Packing the donations from 15 Protestant churches in the Valley which participated in the Church World Service program, are from left, Mrs. E. J. Gallaway, Mrs. W. T. Dykema, and Mrs. Leslie Gunther, chairman of the drive.

Mrs. John Davies was co-chairman. Nearly 4,000 pounds were gathered and sorted at the First Methodist Church in Appleton. Catholic parishes were involved in the Bishop's Drive and Lutherans gave to the Lutheran World Relief as well as private drives. (Post-Crescent Photo)

Rising School Cost Makes Budget Soar

MENASHA — Whopping tax per $1,000 of assessed valuation, boosts, caused by rising school the west side property owners costs and the first levy for will pay $41.04 county and state taxes, will face The town board, in reviewing property owners in the Town of the increases in county expenditures along with its own budget Menasha.

However, at the present time, Chairman Roland Kampo noted the town board could have adopted the budget without a public hearing since no taxes are levied for local purposes "But I think it's a good thing for the people to know where the money is going"

Permits Okay Construction

New Tavern One Of Three Projects To Get Approval

Construction of a new tavern with a storage garage to the rear has been started by the Wichman-Johnson Corp. at 1325 N. Mason Street.

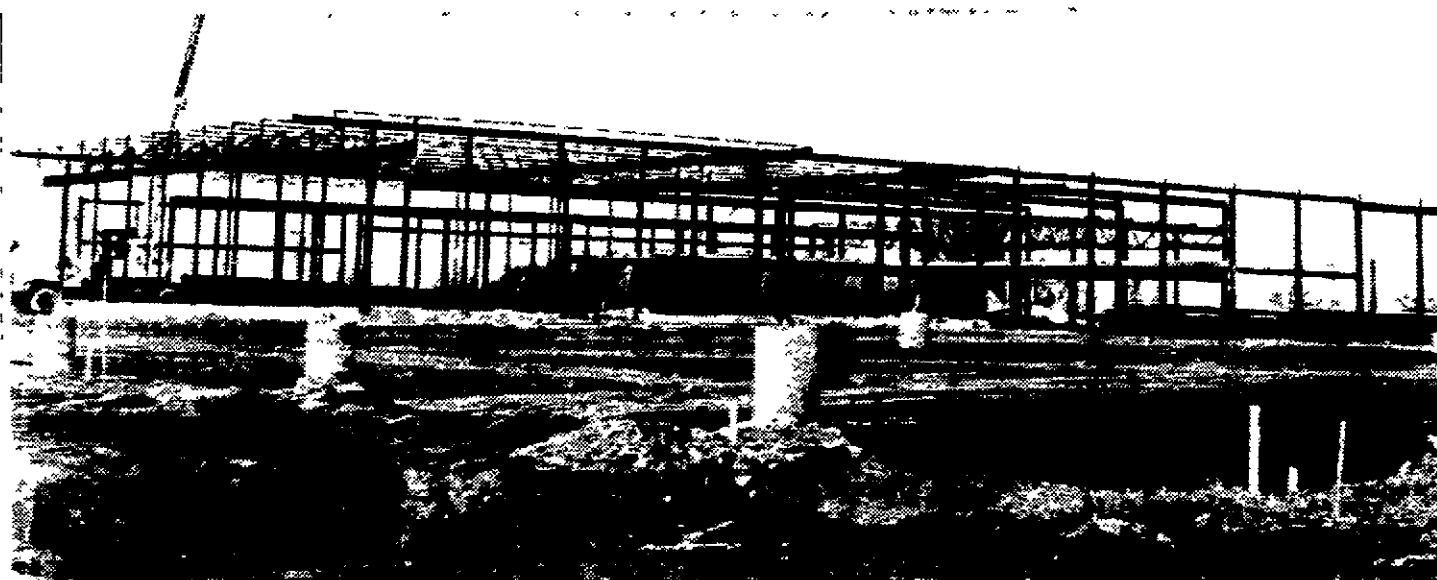

The building permit which estimated the cost at $18,200, was issued recently by the department of inspection

The tavern is being constructed just north of the northwest corner of Mason Street and Wisconsin Avenue.

A service station also is being built on the corner where Shm Otto's Tavern had been located for years.

North of Old Site Otto intends to assume operation of the new tavern which will be just north of the site of his former establishment

Also on the local construction scene, Miller Electric Co. recently contracted for the laying of a concrete slab for $10,000 at new beverage products, 718 S. Bounds St., where the The federation has advised firm reportedly intends to construct an addition to its plant next spring.

The Steel Framework of the new Van Steen Ford Motors Inc. building provides a skeletal outline at its new location at 3030 W. College Avenue with about 20 per cent of the structure already up. Menasha Town Officials Push for Post Office

MENASHA — A post office for the Town of Menasha?

Town Chairman Roland Kampo has long felt a post office in the town would solve many problems — and save the town money.

Clerk Robert Jacobs said Monday night he had sent in a formal inquiry to Washington to see whether the town could have its own post office. Since no reply has been received to date, Jacobs said he would continue the push with another communication to the nation's capital.

A post office would most likely mean a change in name for the town to avoid confusion with the City of Menasha.

This presents "no problem," Kampo remarked this morning. Earlier, one townsman suggested the name of Maplewood Springs to represent both sides of the town. The east side has been known as the Maplewood district and the west side is often referred to as the Springwood section.

Jacobs said he explained the difficulties involved in the town's belonging to three post offices in his letter to officials in Washington.

However, Jacobs felt the town's chances to get its own post office were "slight" since the Town of Grand Chute had been stymied on its application.

Townsmen objected Monday night to a sum of $25,000 for auditors fees in the coming year. Kampo noted the auditors pick up one-third of the money found in misappropriations of state taxes. The town nets about $50,000 through investigation of the tax rolls in Madison.

The town chairman pointed out the problem centered around townsmen, businesses and industries which fail to check off the proper municipality on tax forms.

Wrong Rebate When only the post office address is listed on automobile licenses, insurance forms and income tax statements the rebate goes back to those communities instead of the municipality of residence.

If the town had a post office, there would be less chance for state tax allocations to go to Menasha, Neenah and Appleton, Kampo felt.

He further pointed to the stable fire insurance rebates the town has received in recent years Kampo said no auditing firm was willing to check the books in Madison for misappropriations of those funds. He claimed the town was getting only about 10 per cent of what it was due. "We should be getting $7,000"

The official total of deaths from hard rains and flash floods stood at 316, but it did not include dozens of other mud-crusted corpses dug from the ruins of villages north of Lisbon.

Police investigated the possibility of an organized conspiracy against the 40-year-old dictatorship of premier Antonio Salazar following a rash of rumors in ammunition and gunpowder deposits at military installations near Lisbon. The rumors caused a near-panic in the fashionable suburbs of the Costa do Sol west of Lisbon.

Three persons from the new member county will be on the commission board — one named by Florence to the executive committee, one named by the governor, and one of two Florence County Board nominations approved by the governor.

Florence County Admitted to Plan Commission

Florence County became the ninth member of the Northeastern Wisconsin Regional Planning Commission today, following final approval by the governing body of the county.

MENASHA — With a threat of taking the board of education to court Monday night, John Pawlowski continued his attack on the "illegal procedure" until the board was left helpless and forced to adjourn.

Youth Placed On Probation After Theft

A 17-year-old Appleton boy was placed under supervision of the Outagamie County Department of Health and Social Services after being found delinquent Monday afternoon in connection with the Nov. 5 theft of more than $1,000 from the Clark Service Station, 2010 W. Wisconsin Ave.

Judge Raymond P. Dohr of the Juvenile Court placed the youth on probation for one year, with a warning that another court appearance within that time could result in a trip to the state school for boys. The youth then was released to the custody of his parents.

Judge Dohr ordered the youth to make restitution of about $30 for his third of the money not recovered following the theft, and ordered him to pay about $70 as his share of expenses involved in local authorities traveling to Perrysburg, Ohio, to take him and two other suspects into custody two days after the theft was reported.

Two other Appleton youths are awaiting action in criminal court in connection with the theft.

Industry Shows Interest in Land

MENASHA — At meetings Wednesday and Thursday, the city will consider selling land to a new industry, Mayor Kenneth Holmes revealed Monday night.

The nature of the industry was not specified. Holmes said he has called a meeting of the plans commission for Wednesday at 4:30 p.m. to act on the firm's request for an option on city-owned industrial land.

If the commission recommends granting the option, the common council will hold a special meeting Thursday at 6:45 p.m. to consider the recommendation.

Holmes declined to describe the industry further, stating that details would become public at the plans commission meeting.

In refusing to give further information, Holmes said he feared other communities would seek to attract the firm away from the city.

Sparked into motion when the board acted to revise its policy handbook in the matter of entrance requirements for work toward an adult high school diploma, Pawlowski made a point of inquiry when the session was minutes old.

"On what basis are you going to revise the hand policy book?" he asked. He contended that a majority of the full seven board member board (four) was needed to change a resolution, adopted unanimously by the board.

Mrs. Gaertner took the position, that the board should be ruled by "common sense" and that when the majority of the board members present agreed, it was legal.

Nuclear Plant Building Begins

KEWAUNEE (AP) — Ground was formally broken today for the $83 million nuclear power plant that will be built in the town of Carlton under ownership of three Wisconsin utilities.

Participating in the shovel-turning ceremony were L. G. Roemer, president of Wisconsin Public Service Corp.; J. D. Howard, president of the Wisconsin Power and Light Co.; and E. R. Felber, board chairman of the Madison Gas & Electric Co.

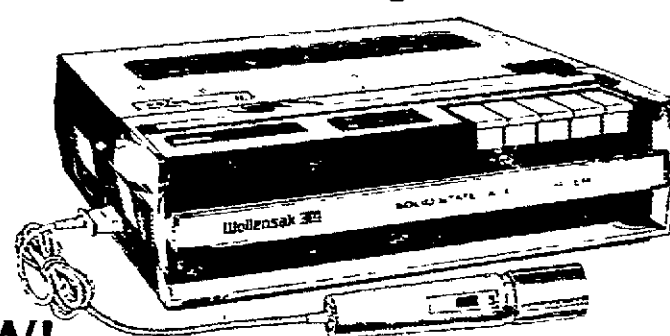

Burglars Wreak Havoc To Interior of Bar On Wisconsin Avenue

Considerable damage was done to the interior of The Pub Bar, 523 W. Wisconsin Ave., by burglars who entered the building through a basement window.

The break-in was reported to police Monday, but was believed to have occurred late Sunday night or early Monday morning. A juke box was extensively damaged and an undetermined amount of money was taken; several bottles of liquor were smashed in the bar area; the screen was broken on a television set, and a large mirror behind the bar was smashed.

Police said there also was an unsuccessful attempt to enter a cigarette vending machine.

Hong Kong Devaluates Currency and Prices Zoom

Chinese Population Resents
British Financial Control

BY MARY WALTER
Post-Crescent Associate Editor

HONG KONG — Concern over the action in Hong Kong to devalue its currency in keeping with the devaluation of the British pound is growing. Typified is the reaction in a daily newspaper controlled by Chinese interests and which puts out such prices too much. Sunday both Chinese and English editions. The government's decision to devalue the Hong Kong dollar was never very convincing, and events since the announcement have shown what a bad decision it was. . . . The men who made the decision to devalue should hear what is being said in the streets now."

What is being said by the Chinese at any rate is that the decision was made, not only arbitrarily but because of British ties and quite unrelated to the welfare of the people of Hong Kong.

Prices Zoom

It took far less than 24 hours for prices to start zooming. In fact one member of our party found that his purchase had been reckoned according to the new rate of exchange the day before the decision was announced here in Hong Kong. The argument that shops paid for items with the old rate and nine "official members" who failures almost two decades ago, therefore ought to sell them at the old rate falls on deaf ears, and eight "unofficial members,"

Such is the buying fervor in Hong Kong that shopkeepers seem assured that they can sell Americans or those with United States dollars are apt to profit the most by the devaluation if they can convince shopkeepers to quote prices in Hong Kong dollars first and not raise such prices too much. Sunday when we arrived we got 5.7 Hong Kong dollars for each American dollar. By Tuesday morning, the rate officially was 6.6.

Certainly part of the resentment comes from the simple fact that there is no representative government in Hong Kong. However, while this shocks the Americans, it should not be overemphasized. Opposition to such absolute control by British is sporadic and limited and obviously balanced by fear of what ever is happening on the other side of the border at Lo Wu where the Kowloon-Canton Railway goes from the New Territories into the part of Kwangtung province controlled by the from Peking.

Hong Kong's legislature, the Legislative Council, is appointed by the British governor as is the Executive Council. There are already Government officers and eight "unofficial members," more representative of the Chinese population. But publications emphasize that the government does not use its majority to ram through unpopular measures. Americans may well de- cry such paternalism and warn of future resentments. But the visitor also gets the idea that Westerners are far more concerned about the plight of the poor in this part of the world than are the wealthy Oriental citizens

The great Hong Kong hobby is China watching. Stringers for newspapers and wire services ride the Kowloon-Canton Railway, hoping to pick up information on what is happening but usually without too much success. Consulates have people monitoring radio broadcasts and reading Communist publications. About all that anyone can agree upon is that there is confusion and turmoil in Red China although since August there have been official efforts made to calm it down.

On Taiwan, Gov. Knowles' party was almost led to believe that the turmoil might be great enough to permit the return of Chiang Kai-shek to power. But, while nothing is certain, especially concerning China, the nearest thing to certainty is that the Nationalists will never re-take the control they lost in the great part because of their own failures almost two decades ago. At least the Chinese intellectuals, even those who fled Red

Says Police Made Change After Arrest

A former Appleton man now residing in Cincinnati believes some members of the police department should exercise better discretion in making arrests.

Phillip E. Berghausen Jr., who said he resided here for three years and complimented the police force for its work, got a citation Nov. 15 at 4:55 p.m. in the roadway behind the H. C. Prange store.

In a four-page, single-spaced, typed letter — copies of which went to Police Chief Earl O. Wolff, Rep. John Byrnes (R-Green Bay), Gov. Warren Knowles, Mayor George Buckley, Prange Co., Chamber of Commerce and The Post-Crescent — Berghausen posed several questions involving his arrest and subsequent forfeiture of $29 bond.

Change Charge

He claims he was first supposedly cited for speeding on Midway Street behind the store and then had an imprudent driving charge lodged against him after the arresting officer conferred with superiors called to the scene.

Berghausen made the point that the officer should have known what he was arresting him for in the first place, and told of further discussion which took place at the police station before the final charge was determined.

He also claimed police did not inform him he could plead nolo contendere (no contest) to the charge.

China, are not willing to trade even the Communist control for the sort of leadership China had in the Nationalists after World War II. The American obsession with communism overlooks the fact that there is more than one kind of tyrannical or ineffective government in the world. The most optimistic view of China is that after both Chiang Kai-shek and Mao Tse-tung are dead, attitudes on both sides will be moderated.

But however limited the information that comes out of Red China, one conclusion seems to be general. Peking threw away its big chance to rejoin the rest of the world about 18 months ago. It was close to admission to the United Nations and nationals of almost every country except the United States were clamoring for trade opportunities. Then came the Chinese intrigue among African states, the attempted Communist coup in Indonesia and the "cultural revolution" with its Red Guards and embassy burnings. Just about everybody is mad at Peking now.

Associate Market Role Best Britain Can Expect

DeGaulle Not Apt to Okay Membership

BRUSSELS (AP) — President Charles de Gaulle's new veto of Britain's application for Common Market membership strengthened the belief of some experts today that Britain had better settle for associate membership.

This status, though humiliating because it would cast Britain in a second-class, non-voting role, would open the Common Market tariff wall to British products.

Prime Minister Harold Wilson has said he does not want any half-measures. But continental experts believe associate membership would be a good thing for Britain and probably the only kind of relationship with the Common Market the British can get as long as De Gaulle is president.

join Greece, Turkey and 18 African states—most of them former French colonies—who have no vote in determining the Common Market's general policy but are consulted on issues of interest to them.

Enlarged Market

In the French view, associate status offers the British a place in a continental customs union for its industrial products. British manufacturers would have access to a greatly enlarged market, competing on equal terms with products made by the six.

The associate arrangement would leave Britain out of Common Market joint farm policy, the sector which has had the most unifying effect so far on the six member countries. The Wilson members have set uniform prices for grain and other major products, established a single

Helicopter Burned

First the Viet Cong slammed 15 82mm mortar rounds into the 117 missions Monday but the Soc Trang field 97 miles south-west of Saigon. A South Vietnamese military spokesman said the shells set fire to one field used for storage and a barracks area.

The Viet Cong, in their latest hit-and-run attacks, raided two U.S. South Vietnamese air bases, a South Vietnamese junk base, a government subsector headquarters and a national police station.

Thirty-five minutes later, Viet Cong firing small arms broke into the Lac Hong airfield 23 miles south of Soc Trang and set fire to four single-engine L19 observation planes, a gas-car, damaged another. At the subsector headquarters, they inflicted heavy damage on an electric power house, a water company and the information office.

While material damage was moderate to heavy, casualties were light. At least two military men were killed and eight others wounded, including one American killed and five Americans wounded.

Assemblyman Ben A. Riehle Dies at Home

WAUSAU (AP) — Democratic Assemblyman Ben A. Riehle, 70, died of an apparent heart attack at his rural Athens home Monday, becoming the fourth assemblyman to die in the current session of the legislature.

Riehle, who was serving his sixth term and was a member of the powerful Joint Finance Committee, represented Marathon County's first district.

He operated the dairy farm on which he was born and was prominent in the agricultural co-operative movement in Wisconsin.

Riehle's death left Republicans with a 53-45 majority in the lower house.

The other three lawmakers to die in the current session were Assemblyman James Held, R-Milwaukee, killed in a traffic accident Oct. 15; G. Fred Galli, R-Monroe; and Adrian Manders, D-Milwaukee. Held's seat has not yet been filled.

Couple Turns Formal Affair Into Robbery

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — An elegant couple dressed formally—he in a tux and she in a floor-length gown—pulled guns and, with a masked accomplice, robbed a restaurant of $1,400 Monday, police said.

The couple was looking at the menu when a man wearing a shocking mask came in with a shotgun and ordered money. The well-dressed pair said they'd have the same.

Tight Credit Symptoms Felt

By JOSEPH R. COYNE Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Signs of a credit squeeze similar to the one last year that forced homebuilding into a tailspin are increasing—and both Johnson administration and industry officials insist only a tax increase can head it off.

Many of the symptoms match last year's and they began developing before the Federal Reserve Board raised the discount rate from 4 to 4 1/2 per cent in reacting to devaluation of the British pound.

This is the rate charged by the Federal Reserve for money borrowed by commercial banks. Other interest rates are pegged upward from it.

Mortgage Money

But since then the government has reported other indications of tightening money, especially for mortgages.

January could be a key month for mortgage lenders and home-builders.

The end of the year also marks the end of a dividend period at savings and loan associations and institutions at that time could face a possible withdrawal of deposits for investments paying higher interest.

This trend last year led to sharp reductions in the growth of savings at S&Ls, the largest single source of home mortgage funds, and depressed home-building.

There have been these indications of tightening mortgage sources. The agency's money the past few days:

Rates Increased

—The Federal Home Loan Bank Board reported an increase in interest rates on conventional home loans to 6.33 per cent for new houses during October. It was the second straight monthly rise although still below the record 6.49 per cent of last December.

—The board also reported the smallest October gain in savings by S&Ls for that month since 1960, except for last year when deposits actually declined.

—Loan commitments by S&Ls—an indication of future home-building—are showing signs of slowing with such pledges down during September and October.

—The Federal National Mortgage Association reduced the price it will pay for mortgages it buys in its secondary market operations. This was done to help.

Bankers use the money they obtain from Fannie Mae to approve new mortgages.

Purchases by Fannie Mae have been heavy in recent months and are now above $80 million a week, a pace which could exhaust its resources by the end of the year, officials said.

This pace is also indicative of a potential money squeeze. When bankers are unable to sell their mortgages privately—to a mutual savings bank for example—they turn to Fannie Mae.

Interest Increases Hike Mortgage Rates

BY SYLVIA PORTER

Home mortgage rates are being jacked up along with all other interest rates to historic highs. The only direction these rates can go now is up in view of the fact that the basic interest rate in the country has been raised to 4 1/2 per cent. The bank rate to the prime borrowers of the world has gone to 6 per cent. credit is tightening and demands for funds from all types of borrowers continue enormous.

In fact, it will be that interest rates in the U.S. have moved to a new higher range for this era and we will not in the foreseeable future return to rate levels considered "normal" as recently as 1965-early 1966.

These are realities which you cannot duck if you are or will be soon in the market to buy a home. What's more, there's no point whatsoever in postponing your buying plans. On the contrary, the quicker, the better for construction costs are in a steep rise, land costs are mounting too and the trend of mortgage costs is as stated above. Are there, then, any ways you can save on mortgage costs? Yes, there are, even though the odds are you will find there is no way to bargain among lenders on the basic mortgage interest rate. The key areas are:

(1) Points. Because of state-regulated interest ceilings, lending institutions are adding "points" to their basic mortgage charges. This holds for FHA and VA as well as conventional mortgage loans. If a lender charges you 5 points, it means he deducts 5 per cent from the face value of your mortgage at the beginning, although you must repay the full amount of the mortgage. On a $20,000 mortgage, $1,000 would be deducted, leaving only $19,000 actually available to you. This is the equivalent of adding more than 1/2 per cent to your basic interest rate. If the lender charges you 10 points, this is the equivalent of adding an extra 1 1/4 per cent to the rate you are paying. The number of points you are charged varies from institution to institution in any given area.

Therefore, check with as many lenders as seems feasible. Find out how many points each would charge you. Also explore the possibility that the seller of the house might share this cost.

(2) Closing costs. These too can vary quite dramatically from lender to lender. There is virtually no room for negotiation on certain closing cost items; for instance, property taxes, state mortgage taxes, fire insurance and title insurance. There is little room for bargaining over an appraisal fee, credit

Corker of Cooker Confounds Cops

HEFLIN, Ala. (AP) — State and federal agents raided a barn looking for a moonshine still and found a corker of a cooker.

"This is the largest cooker any of us has ever seen," said John Corbin Jr., a federal revenue agent. He said the cooker, used in converting mash to whisky, was a 20-foot long, six-foot high steel vat.

The raid recently produced five arrests and 20,360 gallons of fermenting mash. The still was said to be the largest ever discovered in Alabama.

Corbin said the 19,200-gallon still was capable of producing 725 gallons of illicit whisky daily.

Marriage Follows 58 Years After Proposal

CINCINNATI (AP) — Mr. and Mrs. Harry V. Spidle are on their honeymoon today—58 years after Spidle first proposed to the former Mary C. Segmiller.

Both were 17 at the time of the first proposal in 1909 but the courtship ended because her father felt she was too young for marriage.

Miss Segmiller came to Cincinnati where she eventually became head of Deaconess Hospital's nursing school, retiring in 1964. Spidle became an agricultural researcher and bought a farm near Tiffin, Ohio. He married and raised five children before his wife died.

Last year, Miss Segmiller and Spidle met again in their native Altoona, Pa. where both were visiting relatives. They got together and the courtship resumed. They were married Saturday night.

report fee and survey fee. But there are other closing costs, such as the charge for processing your mortgage application and for the services of the institution's lawyer, where you may find significant variations. You also might ask your own lawyer whether it is possible that the seller of the house might share the cost of such items as local recording fees, surveys, termite inspection or even the title search.

Incidentally, a large building firm selling you a new house and arranging the mortgage is likely to offer lower overall closing costs than a small builder.

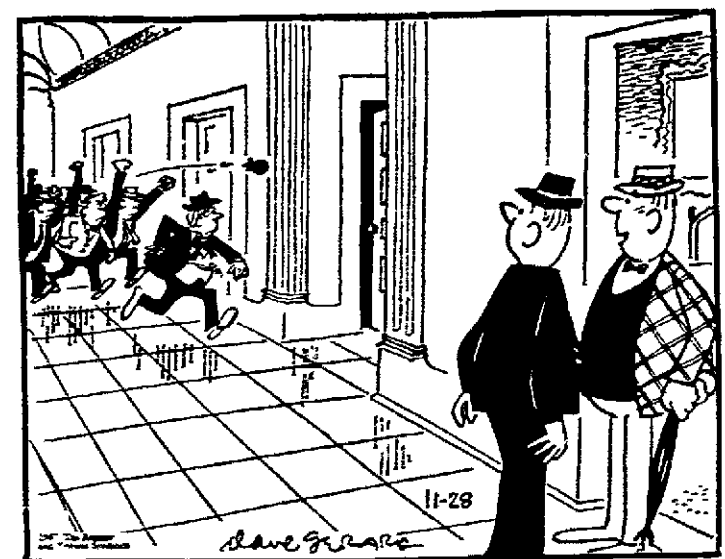

(3) Prepayment. Mortgage prepayment privileges won't save you any money at the time of the closing but they could mean savings running into hundreds or thousands over the life of the mortgage. Try to have a clause included in your contract saying that there will be no penalty in interest for any amount of the mortgage you repay before due date. Some lenders will not allow any prepayment without a forfeit of an interest refund on the amount you prepay; some charge no penalties at all. Shop carefully for a no-penalty arrangement or at least a low-penalty contract.

To Your Good Health Three Square Meals Better Than Snacking

BY JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M. D. Dear Dr. Molner: Does it make any difference how many times a day I eat if I don't eat any more than I would eat in three regular meals? Also would a person gain weight by having a quarter-cup of ice cream between meals? — J.V.

Yes, it makes a difference — although I am not prepared to say just how much difference. Experiments have shown that there is a greater tendency to gain weight from the same number of calories if the food is eaten all at one meal. Dividing the same amount of food into several smaller meals results in less weight gain.

Thus, technically, you could divide your food into, say, six meals, and would gain less weight from it.

Practically, however, some other questions enter into it. The person who is trying to reduce by skipping a meal, say breakfast or lunch, usually tends to eat more at the next meal or two, and thus doesn't succeed in shedding weight. A different trap often fools people who try to eat numerous small meals. It is not easy to keep track of the true caloric value, and it is doubtful if you can hold your food to the same total amount unless you resort to careful measuring and weighing. The eyes don't always agree with the stomach, and there's a temptation to eat more than you think you are eating.

If you are trying to reduce your weight, I think it would be more practical to plan three meals a day with a low-calorie snack at bedtime.

Or, if, rather, you are trying to gain, then eat three solid meals a day with some high-calorie snacks.

What's this about ice cream between meals? If you are reducing — no! If you are trying to gain, yes, because ice cream is high in calories. I don't happen to have the figure for a quarter of a cup, because a more or less average serving is figured at 3 1/2 ounces, or something under half a cup, and that is figured at 130 calories. A quarter of a cup would work out to perhaps 35 calories or so, for vanilla, and somewhat higher for chocolate or sweeter flavors.

Dear Dr. Molner: My husband, who is about 25 pounds overweight, tells me that whenever he catches a cold he should "feed" it. He believes the old adage, "Starve a fever and feed a cold." I say he is wrong. Who is right? — Mrs. G.M.K.

You are. But if he is 25 pounds too fat, he obviously likes his victuals, and the old and long-discredited wheeze about "feeding a cold" is an excuse. Best rule is rest and rather light nourishment for either cold or fever.

Dear Dr. Molner: Is it good for us old people to drink milk? I am 79 and was taught that it was one of our best foods for all ages, but now I have been told it is wrong. — Mrs. N.N.

I have never been able to find out why there is this criticism of milk which we hear from time to time. Milk is a nourishing food and furthermore is very rich in calcium. There are many older folks who don't get enough calcium either for their bones or to prevent easy bruising. A glass or two or three a day, depending

Republicans Launch MORE Campaign

Canvass to Identify Appleton Voters in City-Wide Program

The kick-off meeting for the MORE campaign of Outagamie County Republicans will be held at 8 p.m. today at the Conway Motor Inn.

MORE stands for Mobilization of Republican Enterprise and is intended to identify Republican voters in a block-by-block canvass of Appleton. Block workers who receive their instructions tonight will be asked to report to their captains at report sessions on Dec. 5 and Dec. 10, with the entire campaign to be completed by Dec. 15.

This year the MORE campaign is being coordinated with the county GOP Neighborhood-to-Neighborhood canvass. That program is designed to raise funds and recruit workers for the party, as well as to encourage more participation in political affairs.

Canvass Other Areas
Clarence Mitchell, county GOP chairman, said other areas of the county will be canvassed after the work in Appleton is completed. Mrs. Talbot Peterson is MORE chairman. Arnold Grummer and Richard Murphy are Neighbor-to-Neighbor co-chairmen.

Mitchell also announced today that he has called a special meeting of the party organization for 8 p.m. Dec. 5 to consider amendments to the constitution relating to membership and dues. The session will be held at the Conway Motor Inn and all those holding current county Republican membership cards are eligible to participate.

John Byrnes Blasts Lack of Leadership

Special to The Post-Crescent
KEWAUNEE — The nation needs new leadership and cannot afford to return the Democratic Party to power in 1968. Eighth District Rep. John W. Byrnes said here Monday night.

Speaking at a Republican fund-raising dinner, Byrnes called the roll of national problems he said were either caused or aggravated by a failure of Democratic leadership.

"A nation seriously divided over a major war...worst riots and highest crime rate in our history...an all-time high cost of living, near-record interest rates, sky-high taxes going higher...a sprawling federal government which threatens to dominate our lives and freedom."

"Let us make sure," Byrnes said, "that the American people understand that Democrats have controlled the Executive branch for the last seven years and that they have made most of the appointments, to the Federal Judiciary, including the Supreme Court, during the last four decades."

Byrnes said that a major contribution to dissent over Vietnam policy was President Johnson's 1964 campaign and its "implicit promise" of non-involvement of American troops. "At a critical time, for political purposes, the President gave aid and comfort to those who think we can successfully appease the aggressor," the congressman said, calling for new leadership "to restore unity to a divided nation, to bring the War in Vietnam to an end and to bring peace with honor to Southeast Asia."

Appleton Man Sentenced on Battery Charge

The beating of a man nearly three times his age cost Henry Shegaunee Jr., 23, 705 Whitman Ave., four months in the Outagamie County Jail this morning.

Shegaunee was arraigned in County Court Branch 2 on a battery charge brought following investigation by Sheriff Norbert Marx. Shegaunee pleaded guilty.

The court was told that the 23-year-old man severely beat Joe Zuleger, 62, in the latter's home on Thanksgiving Day. Zuleger, who lives in Koehnke's Woods, suffered a black eye, cut lip, swollen cheek, and had several teeth knocked out in the beating, according to authorities.

Shegaunee reportedly entered Zuleger's home and began striking him. He accused Zuleger of stealing milk from him.

AFS Students to Talk Before Adults at School

A meeting for adults interested in the American Field Service (AFS) program, is set for 7:30 p.m. Thursday in the commons at Appleton High School-East.

Panelists will be the three exchange students now at the two high schools and Jan Dutcher, who spent last summer in Brazil.

The three are Farahnaz Malek-yazdi, Iran; Kevin Schomse, South Africa, both of AHS-East, and Rohini Amereskere, Ceylon, who is outside Wisconsin, and which is outside Wisconsin, and are not legally able to do so. That situation has already occurred in some localities on the Wisconsin-Minnesota boundary and presumably may occur also in other boundary line situations.

Another trend that may lead to a larger non-public school bus passenger list is the provision of bus service over lengths of less than two miles, and especially in the cities. In such instances, non-public school pupils are required to be served also.

But it now seems unlikely, the state agency says, that the total of additional bus passengers generated by the liberalization of the law will equal the 40 percent boost that was originally calculated.

are willing to rent to the facilities until we build our own school," said C. G. Russell Johnson, board chairman.

Neenah, Appleton and Oshkosh have stated that they are not interested in the equipment while Kaukauna and Menasha want to keep it for use in their high school programs.

Sirek will also negotiate with municipal officials for the rent on the plants. According to statistics distributed by the director to all board members, an estimated 50 cents a square foot was the arbitrary figure set for the facilities.

Added to that would be maintenance salaries and supplies, fuel, power, water, light, repair and upkeep of buildings and grounds.

At Oshkosh, which has 33,132 square feet, the total rent would come to $58,438; Appleton, 35,218 square feet, $52,205; Neenah, 11,200 square feet, $23,550.

It was suggested by Sirek that at Menasha the board lease the office space for the local area coordinator and any space used full-time for vocational classes, as can be negotiated.

At Kaukauna, where facilities are also used for high school courses, Sirek suggested leasing the office space and facilities for all programs conducted for apprentices and other part-time classes.

Recommends Leasing

He also recommended the leasing of space in district high schools at $10 per night per classroom and $15 per laboratory with all utilities and custodial services being provided by the school.

Sirek has contacted all the schools which could be used for conducting evening classes and has received various offers, ranging from no charge for facilities to a higher fee than offered by the VTE-12 board.

He will negotiate this to insure fair treatment and a uniform fee for all schools.

The board also approved a $5 fee plus $2 registration fee for non-able classes.

Pictorial Novelty

The first thing to do is to select a picture. It may be from an old calendar, cut from a magazine or it may be a page from a coloring book.

Mount the picture with dabs of glue on a piece of white poster board. Apply a border of colored mending tape.

Cut a piece of poster board the same size as the first one, but of a different color than white. Give it a border of mending tape that contrasts with the color of the first one. The two panels appear in Figure 1.

Glue the second panel to the back of the first one as shown in Figure 2. This completes the double frame which is bound to be an eye-catcher when you hang it on the wall of your den.

Lesson in English BY W. L. GORDON

Words often misused: Do not say, "This is no use to me." Say, "This is OF no use to me."

Often mispronounced: Gala Pronounce as gay-la, and not as "gaal-a"

Synonyms: Curious, inquisitive, prying, inquiring, intrusive, meddling, searching, peeping, a different color than white, peering, scrutinizing.

Word study: "Use a word that contrasts with the color of three times and it is yours." Let the board and of the tape used us increase our vocabulary by around the picture. The two mastering one word each day, panels appear in Figure 1.

Today's word: Inexpugnable: "unconquerable, impregnable." "He has built within himself a fortress inexpugnable to the barbs of his critics."

Jingo Joyful, Musical Events Jam Calendar

UW Quintet Plays Wednesday at Harper; St. Norbert Concert Thursday at DePere

BY JINGO

This is indeed the season to be jolly if musical events mean anything to Mr. and Mrs. Fox Citian and their neighbors. The calendar is overfull with concerts. Scheduled for this week alone are some excellent programs which shouldn't be missed. This doesn't even count the rehearsal evenings of many area residents preparing for church and school Christmas concerts under the exceptional direction of choir-masters, choral and music masters who know their business.

These professionals know how to get the most out of their music people with the result that the Fox Citians has some of the best church and school concerts in the state when it comes to Christmas programs.

Consider the line-up of programs for just this week alone. Monday night two newcomers this year to the Lawrence University music faculty presented their students in as fine a program as anyone could want. The Lawrence Concert Choir was conducted through its euphonious paces by Karle Erickson, assistant professor of music, while three brass ensembles followed the baton of instructor Derald De Young, himself a Conservatory student not too long ago.

Wednesday night in Harper Hall (8 p.m. is concert time), a noted woodwind quintet will present a program of chamber music. They are John Barrows, Richard Lottridge, Glenn Bowen, Harry Peters and Robert Cole—all members of the University of Wisconsin music faculty at Madison. The five musicians have been playing together as a quintet since 1965 and this is their concert debut at Lawrence.

Each has a distinguished musical background. Their program includes a special piece, Woodwind Quintet No. 1, written in 1966 and dedicated to the

The old vaudeville stage of the Wisconsin Theater opened its curtain for the first time in many years when a small group of Beaver Dam thespians presented the comedy "Harvey" in August of 1964. Since then, both the audiences and the roster of plays have grown in a sort of mutual admiration society.

Played Wide Variety There has been the classic comedy "Arsenic and Old Lace," the musical "South Pacific," the serious drama "All My Sons," the ambitious "Sound of Music," and the musical "Bye, Bye Birdie." Two plays presented the two years before "Birdie" were the fast moving comedy "Never Too Late" and "The Gazebo."

Seymour Coed at Lawrence to Give Piano Program

Lawrence Conservatory junior Lana Kollath, Seymour, will present a piano recital at 3 p.m. Thursday, Nov. 30, in Harper Hall at the Lawrence Music-Drama Center.

She will be assisted by soprano Jane Westendorf LeFevre, harpsichordist Michael Fisher, and pianist Suzanne Heileman. She was the recipient of an AAUW scholarship for the current year, and has held Lawrence honor scholarships in her sophomore and junior years. As a freshman she was elected to Sigma, an honorary society, and was recipient of a Pi Kappa Lambda music society annual award. She also received the society's sophomore award.

Her program will include Three Preludes, by Frank Martin; and Prelude, Chorale and Fugue, by Cesar Franck.

Mrs. LeFevre, from Withee, is a senior. She is a voice student of John Koopman, associate professor of music, and a candidate for the Bachelor of Music degree with a major in music education.

She will sing selections by Alessandro Scarlatti and Brahms, and a part of Das Marien Leben, by Paul Hindemith.

Fisher, West Bend, and Miss Heileman, Hales Corners, are seniors. They will accompany Lincoln Portrait. Music of the Mrs. LeFevre.

Lawrence's McKee Picked As Little All-America QB

Becomes Third Vike Honored On First Team

Gary Hietpas and Strasser Win Honorable Mention

Chuck McKee has earned the distinction of being Lawrence University's first Little All-America quarterback and has become the Vikes' third Vike in history to be named to the national first team.

McKee, who climaxed a brilliant 3-year career by leading Lawrence to one of the only 16 unbeaten, untied records in all of collegiate football this season, was today named Little All-America QB by The Associated Press. He beat out the more highly publicized Bob Toledo, of San Francisco State.

The only other Vikes ever to win first-team Little All-America acclaim were end Claude Radtke (present Appleton East coach), in 1949; and end Sal Ciarciola (1953-4). The Vikes' Bruce Bigford was a second-team choice in 1951, and end Joe Lamers won honorable mention in 1961.

Gary Hietpas, "Mr. Defense" of the Midwest Conference champion Vikes today won honorable mention on the Little All-America team. The same honor

Southern California Ranked As Nation's Top Grid Squad

Tennessee Rated Second In Final Poll

By ED SCHUYLER JR. Associated Press Sports Writer

Southern California is king of 1967 college football. John McKav's Trojans were awarded 474 points today to 436 to Tennessee in the final Associated Press major college poll.

Southern California, which finished its regular season with a 9-1 record, received 36 first-place ballots in voting by a panel of 49 sports writers and broadcasters.

Tennessee, 8-1 with one regular season game remaining before its Orange Bowl date with Oklahoma, received 11 first-place votes.

Oklahoma was third with 311 points, followed by Indiana with 245 and Notre Dame with 243.

Out of Top Ten
Indiana, Southern Cal's Rose Bowl opponent, dropped out of the Top Ten after losing to Minnesota, but the Hoosiers roared back to gain fourth after upsetting Purdue and finish with a regular-season 9-1 mark.

Notre Dame got one first-place vote and so did Sugar Bowl-bound Wyoming, which finished sixth with 222 points.

Rounding out the Top Ten are Oregon State, Alabama, Purdue and Penn State.

Besides Indiana, Penn State is the only new member of the Top Ten. It was a last-chance situation for the Gator Bowl-bound Nittany Lions, who had not been in the Top Ten before at any time this season.

UCLA, fourth last week before being upset by Syracuse, and Houston, 10th before being surprised by Tulsa, dropped out of the rankings.

The Top Ten, with first place votes in parentheses, season records and points on a 100-point scale (4-2-1 basis):

1. Southern California (36)	9-1	474
2. Tennessee (11)	8-1	436
3. Oklahoma (6)	8-1	311
4. Indiana (5)	9-1	245
5. Notre Dame (1)	8-2	243
6. Wyoming (1)	10-0	222
7. Oregon State (1)	7-2	154
8. Alabama (1)	7-1	152
9. Purdue (1)	8-2	139
10. Penn State (1)	8-2	129

Others receiving votes listed alphabetically: Arizona State, Army, Colorado, Florida State, Louisiana State, Miami, Iowa, Minnesota, North Carolina State, Syracuse, Texas A&M, Texas at El Paso, UCLA.

MU '5' Opens Against OSU in Rainbow Classic

HONOLULU (AP) — Marquette University of Milwaukee is among six mainland teams invited by the University of Hawaii to play in the annual Rainbow Basketball Classic here next month.

A spokesman said Monday that the Honolulu school already had sent telegrams inviting the six teams.

The first-round pairings are Marquette University vs Ohio State, Dec. 27.

University of Hawaii vs Northwestern, Dec. 27.

North Texas State vs Hawaii Service team (not yet chosen), Dec. 28.

Houston vs Bradley, Dec. 28.

3 Stars Repeat On National Honor Team

San Francisco's Bob Toledo on Second Unit

By HAROLD CLAASSEN

NEW YORK (AP) — Stars from 22 different colleges, led by an outstanding center and a trio of repeaters from the 1966 team, were named to the 1967 Little College All-America football team today following a national survey of coaches and newsmen.

The highly rated center is Victor Bender of Northeast Louisiana State, while two of the repeaters are halfbacks Carl Garrett of New Mexico Highlands and Don Hass of the powerful Montana State aggregation.

Despite his second straight appearance on the star-studded roster of small college heroes, the 6-foot, 215-pound runner for the New Mexico Cowboys is only a junior and has a chance next season to be named a third team.

Holds Record
If he does, he will equal the record of Eddie LeBaron, then of the College of the Pacific and later a National Football League star, who was named in 1947, 1948 and 1949.

At the helm of the 1967 aggregation is Charles "Chuck" McKee of Lawrence, a leader as well as an athlete. He is the only athlete in the past 20 years for whom unsolicited recommendations from all coaches whose teams he opposed were received.

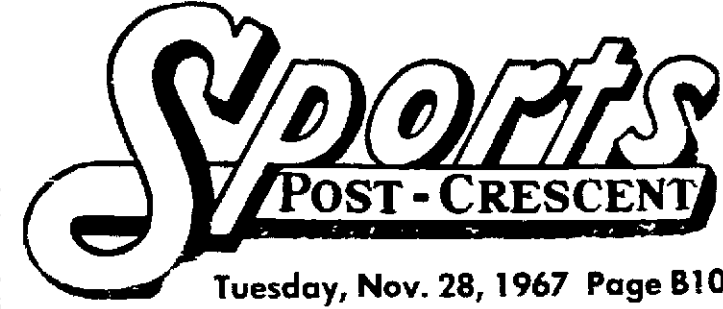

McKee, among the national leaders in all phases of offense, was a high school contemporary of Rocky Bleier the Notre Dame captain, but came to Lawrence for its premised course, in which he is a B-plus student.

His presence on the first team moved Bob "Holt" Toledo of San Francisco State to the second team and Garv Sandbo of Augustana College in Sioux Falls, S.D., to the honorable mention. Toledo is the nation's leader in total offense among the smaller colleges while the physically small Sandbo — he's only 5-foot-9 and weighs 175 at most — is the only player to have gained 1,000 yards or more in each of his three seasons in the rugged North Central Conference.

Completing the backfield is Lee White of Weber, whom some scouts have rated the best fullback in the country. He carries a bruising-hard 232 pounds on his 6-4 frame.

The third repeater from the 1966 team is DeWayne Nix of Texas A&I, at end. Like Gar-

Baseball Strengthens Enforcement of Ruling Against Use of Spitter

By CHARLES GREEN

MEXICO CITY (AP) — "If a pitcher is clever enough he can throw anything he wants. We are just trying to make sure he doesn't want to throw a spitball."

That was the way Paul Richards, general manager of the Atlanta Braves, reasoned the latest change in baseball rules, a change designed to put some teeth in the ban against the spitball.

The Playing Rules Committee amended Rule 302A Monday, to prohibit a pitcher from touching his mouth or lips or spitting in his hand, glove or on the ball. The first violation brings a warning from the umpire the second automatic expulsion from the game.

Richards, who proposed the change, said, "It is too late when a manager complains after a pitcher has thrown a spitter. It's all over then and there's no proof. So it must be stopped sooner, at the mouth, where 85 per cent of the foreign substances come from."

No Excretion
The rule applies at the start of next season even to those pitchers who touch their mouth in nervous habit, even if they've never thrown a spitter in their lives.

Spitballs were banned at the start of the 1920 season but 19 pitchers who were throwing spitballs then were allowed to continue the practice until retirement. Burleigh Grimes of the St. Louis Cardinals, who retired in the mid-1930s, was the last of the legal spitball pitchers.

But pitchers kept up the practice on the sly. Almost every team in the major leagues has at least one wetball pitcher although Cal Koonce of the New York Mets is the only active hurler to make a public admission that his pitches have something on them other than natural effort.

Charles Segar, president of the Playing Rules Committee, announced the change on the first day of the annual winter baseball meetings. It was suggested McKee said

McKee Finds It Hard to Believe

Chuck and Roberts Get News Early Of Selection

APPLETON (AP) — Quarterback Chuck McKee of Lawrence University climbed out of bed today saying he finds it hard to believe he was named to the 1967 College All-America football team.

Lawrence, which won the Midwest Conference title with an 8-0 record, doesn't get much nationwide exposure, and McKee expressed surprise that he should have received national attention.

"I can't believe it," he said, "We play a closed schedule (no non-conference games) and any one's chances in the Midwest Conference are as slim as Lawrence's chances of being ranked nationally."

McKee and his coach, Ron Roberts, got the news in early morning telephone calls. Roberts similarly was delightedly surprised.

"I just can't believe it," he said. "I just can't believe it." McKee is the only candidate for the honors team in 20 years to get unsolicited recommendations from coaches of all the teams he opposed.

"I only wish I was half as good as they think I am," McKee said.

Lawrence University's Chuck McKee today was named on the Little All-America football team. He is the first Vike quarterback ever to win the honor.

Lindgren Cops Harrier Title

Outdistances 111 Competitors for Third NCAA Crown

LARAMIE Wyo. (AP) — Gerry Lindgren of Washington State University outdistanced 111 competitors Monday to win his third straight National Collegiate Athletic Association cross-country championship.

Lindgren finished the six-mile course in 30:45.6, 50 yards ahead of Arnold Celling of North Dakota University. Gelling's time of 31:01.0, as five seconds faster than Mike Ryan of the Air Force Academy, Craig Runyan Jr. of Colorado University, was fourth at 31:11.0.

Lindgren and the other runners were thoroughly exhausted after the race in 35-degree weather, but no one collapsed.

Rounding out the top 10 individual performers were Larry Wiecek, Iowa, 31:22.0; Ambrose Burfoot, Wesleyan University of Connecticut, 31:23.0; Ricky Trujillo, Colorado, 31:41.0; Darold Dent, San Jose State, 31:51.0; Samuel Barr Kent State, 31:55.0; and Charles Messenger, Villanova, 32:01.0.

Wisconsin's Criter, Domres Selected to All-Big 10 Squad

Purdue, Indiana, Minnesota Get
12 Places; Keyes Unanimous Pick

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN — CHICAGO (AP) — Cochran, Purdue, Indiana and Minnesota bagged 12 places on the 1967 Associated Press All Big Ten football squad.

Purdue's Leroy Keyes was the only unanimous choice by the board of sportswriters in the Big Ten area. Defensive back Tom Sakal of Minnesota missed unanimity by one vote.

The offensive and defensive units, plus kicking specialist Dick Emmerich of Northwestern, did not have a single repeater from the 1966 top lineups.

However, three players from last year's second team were elevated to the No. 1 units. They were Keyes, split end John Wright of Illinois and linebacker Jim Snadecki of Indiana.

Purdue headed the selections with five players. Joining Keyes on offensive were backs Mike Phipps, the squads only sophomore, and Perry Williams, and end Jim Bernie. On defense was middle guard Chuck Kyle.

In addition to Sakal, Minnesota took three other spots with offensive tackle John Williams, defensive end Bob Stein and defensive tackle McKinley Boston.

Rose Bowl-bound Indiana won three berths with offensive Gary Casales and linebackers Jim Snadecki and Ken Kaczmarek.

The offensive line averages 225 pounds and the defensive linemen average 224.

Rounding out the offensive team were end Jim Bernie,

2 Titles for Schuler

St. John, Xavier '11s' Win Team Honors

Champion Little Chute St. John (7-0) scored the most points in the 1967 Fox Valley Catholic Conference football race, while co-runnerup Appleton Xavier gave up the fewest.

The Chuteers tallied 173 points, an average of 25 per game. Xavier yielded only 53—an average of 7.6.

Co-runnerup Menasha St. Mary was second in both scoring—172 points—and in the fewest points allowed—58.

Premontre, which shared second place with Xavier and St. Mary, won both total offense and total defense honors. The Cadets accumulated 2,119 yards and yielded 1,292.

St. Mary edged St. John for runnerup offense honors—1,973 to 1,959. Xavier finished a close second to Premontre, defensively, with a 1,211-yard yield.

St. John's Ed (Oscar) Schuler won two individual titles. He was the top rusher—with 765 yards—and the leading scorer (with 84 points).

Though Xavier's Brad Graff played only four complete FVCC games before being injured, he placed second in scoring, with 49 points. Premontre's Tony Canadeo, Jr., was second in rushing, with 639 yards.

St. Mary's Mike McClone chalked up the most passing yardage, 785 on 33 completions in 82 throws. St. John's Lee Weyenberg was second, with 36 strikes in 63 tries for 688 yards.

Premontre's Bishop was the leading receiver, with 18 catches for 463 yards. The Zephyrs' Mark Pozolinski was second in receiving with 17 for 387 yards and the top touchdown mark, of seven.

Northwest Shows Decline

Deer Kill May Reach as High as 118,000

MADISON (AP)—State game wardens said Monday that unofficial figures indicate Wisconsin's nine-day deer hunting season ended with a harvest substantially higher than last year's 110,000.

Officials of the Department of Natural Resources said complete registration totals would not be available for several days, but partial counts and past experience indicated a 1967 take of 115,000 to 118,000 deer.

Hunters had until late Monday to register their whitetail trophies in most counties.

Only the northwestern part of the state showed a decline in deer kill, while four of the department's five administrative area headquarters reported increases.

3,000 Short
A sampling of northwestern area registration stations showed the total kill would fall some 3,000 short of last year's 29,000. Lack of tracking snow was blamed.

In the northeast, tracking conditions were almost ideal for several days and Harvey Mau-ret, he has a year of eligibility remaining and could equal the Lebaron records. He relies on "How are we going to get our speed and agility, lacking the freedom by doing those things you're talking about?" one of an end or a Texan. He stands 5-11 and weighs 180.

The other end is Haven Moses of San Diego State and one of the main reasons the Californians have had two such outstanding seasons in a row. He is 6-3 and 195 and is expected to go in the first round of the approaching pro draft.

Eddie Joyner of Lenoir Rhyne, an from last season's second team, and John Gloistein of Wagner's unbeaten Seahawks are the tackles. Sperson Wynn of Lamar Tech and Leland Hughes of Delta State are the guards.

The first and second line of defense averages just above 222 pounds a man. At the ends are William Hanna of Northern Arizona State and Jeff Queen of Morgan State. The defensive tackles are Claude Humphrey, Tennessee A&I, and Dave Williams of Fairmont, W.Va.

Ray Pedersen of Northern Iowa University is the 218-pound middle guard with Robert Beers of Montana. Dave Regusa of Rochester and Richard Jaeger of Gustavus Adolphus the linebackers.

Major Hazelton of Florida A&M and Steve Dockery of Maryville, Tenn., are the defensive halfbacks with Robert Williams of Arlington-Texas the safety.

Fond du Lac, tonight, will be favored to become the first basketball team to score two Fox River Valley Conference victories this season.

The Cardinals, who upset Green Bay East, 72-60, last Saturday, will play host to Green Bay Preble tonight. The only other league game on tonight's program will send Green Bay Southwest to Sheboygan South, as both make their conference debuts.

Five games are on Friday night's schedule, with all FRVC

teams, except Preble seeing action.

In the season's first showdown among top-rated teams, Sheboygan North scored a 64-55 victory over defending co-champion Green Bay West. What makes the win more impressive is that it was scored on the Wildcats' court. Pat Matzder fired in 32 points for the Raiders.

Fond du Lac, tonight, will be favored to become the first basketball team to score two Fox River Valley Conference victories this season.

The Cardinals, who upset Green Bay East, 72-60, last Saturday, will play host to Green Bay Preble tonight. The only other league game on tonight's program will send Green Bay Southwest to Sheboygan South, as both make their conference debuts.

Five games are on Friday night's schedule, with all FRVC

teams, except Preble seeing action.

In the season's first showdown among top-rated teams, Sheboygan North scored a 64-55 victory over defending co-champion Green Bay West. What makes the win more impressive is that it was scored on the Wildcats' court. Pat Matzder fired in 32 points for the Raiders.

McNamara to Quit Cabinet Position, Lead World Bank

Three Men Are Considered prime candidates to succeed Robert S. McNamara as secretary of defense. From left, Texas Gov. John B. Connally; Cyrus Vance, former deputy defense secretary, and Paul Nitze, present deputy defense secretary, are those most often mentioned as successors. (AP Wirephotos)

McNamara Set Longevity Record

Tireless Leader or Cold Computer?

WASHINGTON (AP) — His supporters call him the best defense chief in U.S. history and find him a tireless, brilliant leader, a warm family man and friend.

His critics scornfully dub him "Supermac" and portray him as cold and machine-like, a cost-conscious human computer without a heart.

History will know Robert Strange McNamara, 51, as the man who set a record for longevity in one of the world's toughest jobs—U.S. defense secretary.

His impending resignation from the defense post to head the World Bank was learned Monday night at a time when McNamara is less than two months away from completing seven years on the job. None of his seven predecessors served even five years in the post.

Plucked by President John F. Kennedy from the presidency of the Ford Motor Co. to be defense secretary, McNamara remained at the post under Kennedy's successor, President Johnson.

He gave up Ford stock that would have earned him an estimated $3 million the day he accepted the $35,000-a-year defense post. "How many millions does a man need?" he asked.

Few persons ever questioned McNamara's executive ability or his devotion to a job in which he often spent 12-hour work days.

Pentagon Complaints
But from Capitol Hill often came grumblings that he showed inadequate deference to members of Congress. And there were complaints from the Pentagon that, unlike some of his predecessors, he only listened to advice from the military instead of accepting it as gospel.

Part of the public McNamara image is his ability to answer questions by producing long strings of statistics without reference to notes.

That and his almost spartan image—the hair combed straight back, the rimless glasses, the lean body—seem to lend credence to charges he's a human computer.

But without feelings? His close friends in and out of government vehemently deny the charge.

They cite his devotion to his wife of nearly 28 years, Margaret, and their three children, Margaret Elizabeth, Kathleen and Robert C. McNamara.

They recall the family skiing and hiking excursions where the usually reserved defense chief was photographed wearing a rare expression of outright exuberance.

McNamara was born in San Francisco June 9, 1916, the son of Robert James and Nell Strange McNamara. His father managed a wholesale shoe factory.

He was graduated from the University of California at Berkeley in 1937, winning Phi Beta Kappa honors as a sophomore. Two years later he received a master's degree in business administration at Harvard.

After working briefly for a West Coast accounting firm, McNamara taught for three years at Harvard, resigning to enter the Air Force.

After leaving the service in 1945 he joined Ford and rose rapidly through the huge company's executive ranks to become president in 1960.

Then he came to Washington and a job to which he brought a decision-making capacity he once described as:

"Having examined the alternatives, I have no hesitancy in making a decision. Once made it doesn't worry me. It's the problem of finding the right approach to an objective that worries me, that keeps me awake and makes me irritable at home."

Picked by Johnson for Post; Connally May be Secretary's Successor

BY FRANK CORMIER

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Robert Strange McNamara, for nearly seven years manager of the world's largest military establishment, is resigning to become president of the World Bank. McNamara's formal selection as the $40,000-a-year president of the international lending institution will come Wednesday when the bank's 20 directors meet at its Washington headquarters.

He will succeed another American, George D. Woods.

With President Johnson's approval, McNamara, 51, was secretly nominated for the bank presidency last week. The nomination was made by the United States, which traditionally plays the nominating role because it is the largest single financial contributor to the bank.

Early Next Year
Woods' term expires at the end of this year but he has an interim appointment to serve an additional year unless a successor is named earlier. There was no word on just when McNamara would take over, and so it could be early next year—or not for months.

McNamara's impending departure immediately raised speculation that he would be replaced in the Defense post by one of Johnson's closest political allies, Texas Gov. John B. Connally, a former secretary of the Navy. But Connally, who recently announced he would not seek re-election as governor, said Monday there was no truth to such rumors.

There had been recurrent reports in recent months that McNamara was anxious to leave his Cabinet post, which has often demanded working days of 12 and 18 hours, sometimes seven days a week.

A former president of the Ford Motor Co., McNamara has been defense chief since the inauguration of President John F. Kennedy in January 1961. No other man has held the post that long.

Cabinet Favorites
When Johnson became President four years ago, he quickly made it apparent that McNamara and Secretary of State Dean Rusk were particular favorites of his within the Cabinet he inherited from Kennedy.

They became key presidential advisers managing the enlarged war in Vietnam.

With Vietnam now a major item of public controversy and with a presidential election barely 11 months away, it was believed Johnson would have preferred to keep his top war leadership team intact. But he

Turkish Ships Circle Cyprus

War Threats Continue as Negotiators Trade Plans

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — Turkish warships circled off the Cyprus coast for two hours today, then disappeared in a fog in the lee of a small island in the beyond the breakwater. The Turkish ships steamed slowly toward the northwest, made a leisurely circle, disappeared out of sight under a light fog.

The exercise appeared to be a new threat of force, to pressure Greece in the tense diplomatic negotiations with Turkey.

The ships appeared on the horizon at 8:40 a.m. Shortly before two Turkish air force jets zoomed low over Nicosia and circled the city three times at low height.

Ankara and Athens appeared to be near agreement on measures to avert a war between them over Cyprus. Foreign observers in the Turkish capital suggested that the naval ships were maneuvering off Cyprus to put pressure on the Athens government.

Discounting the renewed fears of invasion, sources in Ankara said the Turkish flotilla consisted of six destroyers, two submarines and other smaller ships. They were within Cyprus' 12-mile limit of territorial waters, and carriers remained in the south Turkish port of Mersin.

'Normal Exercise'
But in Ankara, an informant said the ships were conducting "a normal exercise."

U.N. peace force observers at Kyrenia, 15 miles north of Nicosia, said between six to eight ships were within Cyprus' 12-mile limit of territorial waters. When the line of vessels ap-

Troops to Step Into Rioting in Malaysia

KUALA LUMPUR (AP) — The Malaysian government declared limited martial law in northwest Malaysia today in an effort to quell spreading racial clashes between Malays and Chinese.

Army and police reinforcements poured into the worst affected areas, including Prime Minister Tunku Abdul Rahman's home state of Kedah, after racial riots, arson and looting spread from the island city of Penang to the mainland.

A police spokesman said the toll from five days of riots and disturbances was 17 dead and 196 injured, half of the latter seriously enough to be hospitalized.

He said that three Malays and 14 Chinese had been killed, while the injured included 77 Malays, 112 Chinese, two policemen and two soldiers.

Danger to Public
Deputy Prime Minister Tun Abdul Razak signed the proclamation declaring "a state of danger to public order" throughout Kedah and parts of Perak state, the rice bowl of Malaysia.

The proclamation gave the police and military wide powers to do whatever they felt necessary to ensure the preservation of public order, which Razak said was "seriously threatened."

The worst incident Tuesday was reported in Wellesley Province, where a family of four was burned to death when arsonists set fire to their home.

Three other homes and a coffee shop were burned and several cases of looting and stabbing were reported in the 280-square-mile province that is separated from Penang Island by a five-mile waterway.

Police said the body of a woman with her arms cut off had been found in one village.

The hostilities, which began in Penang with demonstrations against devaluation of part of Malaysia's currency, spread across Wellesley to neighboring Perak and Kedah states.

Round-the-clock curfews were imposed in Wellesley and parts of the two states.

Police continued a roundup of leftists and members of Chinese secret societies. A police spokesman in Kuala Lumpur, the national capital, said 814 persons had been arrested, about two thirds of them Chinese.

Announcement Is Expected Wednesday of the resignation of Robert S. McNamara, 51, as secretary of defense to become the president of the World Bank. He has held the key cabinet post for nearly seven years under two presidents. At top he is with then President-elect John F. Kennedy when he was appointed in 1960. Lower he is with President Lyndon Johnson in the White House on Nov. 23, 1963, the day after President Kennedy was assassinated. When Johnson asked him to stay on, he previously was Ford Corp. president. (AP Wirephotos)

Rookie Breaks Up Peddlers

Patrolman Joins Marijuana Set

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex. (AP) — A rookie policeman told today how he infiltrated a group of marijuana-smoking high school students in an attempt to halt the peddling of narcotics to teen-agers.

Patrolman Glenn Boggs, 23, said he enrolled in a Corpus Christi high school, got himself kicked out twice for cutting classes and faked "getting high" on marijuana to win the youths' confidence.

13 Arrested
He compiled a list of 200 teen-agers he said he observed smoking marijuana or taking pills. Thirteen persons, one an adult and the others under 21, have been charged as dealers suspected of selling to teen-agers as a result of his investigation. Police say they expect more arrests.

Boggs said he spent two months and two weeks with the teen-age set.

"Boy, those people were real paranoid," the officer said in an interview. "The first guy I made, the peddler said 'hey, man, are you a narc?' (federal agent)? I replied yeah, man, I am—twice on Sundays and every day of the week.

"That's the way most of them were—suspicious of everything, but they would always make the sale."

He attended marijuana parties and faked smoking by sucking around his fingers, breathing deep and cupping his hands, he related. Sometimes he slept on a nearby island with the teen-agers or at their parents' homes.

"Some of those kids have all the money in the world," Boggs said. "They were just hanging around the marijuana because it's some kind of a status symbol. They aren't hippies."

"This 'marijuana' is their life. People can say it's not addictive or bad for you, but every one of them I've known and dealt with—well that's all they think and talk about."

He said the students made trips to buy marijuana in Mexico and sold it for $4 to $6 for a matchbox of the stuff or 50 cents for a cigarette-style smoke.

Boggs said marijuana was a "24-hour-a-day deal with them," and they even smoked it in the restrooms at school.

Not for Profit

Boggs said most of the teen-agers would not sell marijuana for a profit but supplied their friends in an attempt to gain status.

"They just wanted to turn everybody on," he said. "They want to turn the world on."

His masquerade came to an end when he ran into an old Navy buddy who told the teen-agers Boggs was a policeman.

"I still made three deals after he told everybody I was a narc," he related.

Battle of Dak To... An Analysis

Reds More Interested in Propaganda Than Victory

By JOHN T. WHEELER
SAIGON (AP) — The largest ticks built around such heavy and bloodiest sustained battle of weapons as large rockets and mortars.

The war around the highlands town of Dak To apparently was set off by the Communists more with an eye toward U.S. public opinion than for any long-range tactical advantage, a senior U.S. Command officer says.

The three-week battle cost 287 American lives and left 1,641 North Vietnamese dead on the battleground by U.S. count.

In surveying it the U.S. Command can find strong reasons for both optimism and pessimism.

The senior U.S. officer, discussing this and other recent battles, said the pattern tended to reinforce a theory long held by the U.S. Command.

Main Objective
The Communists long ago decided they could not grab and hold strategic real estate in the face of American firepower and mobility. Their main objective then became to kill as many Americans as possible in steadily bigger battles. They hope to stir further antiwar sentiment in the United States and win through a collapse of will on the American home front, U.S. officials believe.

In recent months the Communists, picking the time and place for the big battles, have emphasized border areas where their supply lines are shortest and escape to sanctuaries in Cambodia and Laos is easy.

The big battles pull American battalions away from pacification areas to meet such major threats. Months of pacification work can be rolled back overnight if the Viet Cong are able to strike at points weakened by such troop drains.

There is also speculation at top U.S. Command levels that the Communists are experimenting with new infantry tactics built around such heavy weapons as large rockets and mortars.

'High-Powered Victory'
Officers discount a theory that the Communists wanted to take high - powered propaganda victory which he has not had for a towns around which recent big and a half.

"It would have had impact when asked about the enemy's intention there, said: "If the enemy could have seized the airfield and the town and held them even two, three or four days it would have been a very high - powered propaganda victory which he has not had for a towns around which recent big and a half."

These hills lack long-term strategic value. If Dak To follows the pattern of the Ia Drang Valley, Plei Me and Loc Ninh, neither side will be in the same area with a large force soon.

The battle itself was reason enough for the fight.

The Communists in weeks of labor honeycombed the area around Dak To with deep bunkers, communication trenches and other fortifications. Having

Three Holiday Mishaps at New London

Police Report 1 Minor Injury, 3-Car Accident

NEW LONDON — Three accidents Sunday, one involving a minor injury, were the extent of Thanksgiving holiday weekend mishaps in the city, according to the New London Police Department.

A car driven by Keith A. Eichorst, 27, 316 N. Water St., hit a fire hydrant and mail box at N. Water Street and St. Johns Place at 3:55 p.m. Police said Eichorst, heading west on N. Water Street, was turning left onto St. Johns Place when the accident occurred. Damage exceeded $100.

Lee Beattie, 31, New London, complained of a scratch on his left leg when the car in which he was riding struck the rear of a car driven by Thomas M. Berton, 28, 317 Forest St., Neenah, at 5 p.m. at U.S. 45 and State 54.

Lawrence G. Gabrielson, 45, 508 Avon St., driver of the car in which Beattie was riding, has been charged with reckless driving.

The tie-up at the intersection contributed to a 3-car accident about three-fourths of a mile north of State 54 at 5:10 p.m. Cars driven by Stephen J. Kuepper Jr., 32, 344 S. Main St., Kimberly, and Jack S. Dorner Jr., 47, Beaver Dam, were both stopped in the southbound lane because of a traffic back up when a car driven by Harry J. Imber, 66, Milwaukee, unable to stop in time, struck the rear of the Dorner vehicle. The Dorner car, in turn, bumped the Kuepper auto. Damage exceeded $100.

District May Buy or Lease

VTE-12 Approves Equipment Pricing, Rent Negotiations

William Sirek, Vocational, Technical and Adult (VTE-12) school director, was authorized Monday by the VTE-12 board to enter into arrangement with municipalities to hire an expert to appraise the equipment in the satellite vocational schools.

Sirek also was authorized to meet with officials of cities which now own vocational facilities, to discuss renting the school plants.

According to Sirek, the total value on equipment purchased since 1957 at the Oshkosh school comes to $92,485 and about $90,000 at Appleton. However, federal and state equity in this equipment totals around $60,000 at each of the schools.

"This is where the difficulty will come in," said Sirek, "because we have very few records of purchases prior to this time and there is quite a lot of equipment which was purchased before 1957."

In Full Control He also added that the vocational district already owns a part of the equipment by virtue of state and federal aids. One party must be in full control of the property.

Sirek was asked by a board member whether it would be wise to buy now because in three years, when the new central facility is built, the equipment might be obsolete. He replied that not only would the school be able to use a great deal of the present equipment, but that much of the obsolete machinery could be traded in.

"Even if we would decide to only lease it, we would still need an appraiser to tell us what it is worth," Sirek added.

Are Honor-Bound "We certainly are honor-bound to buy it from the cities, who may not have any use for it but are willing to rent us the facilities until we build our own school," said C. G. Russell 1, Black Creek; Lynn Hietpas, 11, 316 W. North St., Little Chute; Tim Page, 11, 555 Chain Drive, Town of Menasha; and two Appleton girls, Lannette Johnson, 10, 2608 N. Bennett St., and Cindy Howe, 8, 230 E. Brewster St.

Columnist Cappy Dick will send a pencil case prize to each winner within two weeks by mail.

members, an estimated 50 cents a square foot was the arbitrary figure set for the facilities. Added to that would be maintenance salaries and supplies, fuel, power, water, light, repair and upkeep of buildings and grounds.

At Oshkosh, which has 33,132 square feet, the total rent would come to $36,433; Appleton, 35,218 square feet, $52,205; Neenah, 11,200 square feet, $23,550.

It was suggested by Sirek that at Menasha the board lease the office space for the local area coordinator and any space used full-time for vocational classes, as can be negotiated.

At Kaukauna, where facilities are also used for high school courses, Sirek suggested leasing the office space and facilities for all programs conducted for apprentices and other part-time classes.

Recommends Leasing He also recommended the leasing of space in district high schools at $10 per night per classroom and $15 per laboratory with all utilities and custodial services being provided by the school.

Sirek has contacted all the schools which could be used for conducting evening classes and has received various offers, ranging from no charge for facilities to a higher fee than offered by the VTE-12 board.

He will negotiate this to insure fair treatment and a uniform fee for all schools.

The board also approved a $5-fee plus $2 registration fee for non-aidable classes.

New London Crews Complete Work on New Ornamentation

NEW LONDON — The city's Christmas decorations were put up Monday by the New London Utilities and members of the department of public works.

Three men from each city department worked on the decorations all day. Forty new pole mounted decorations, shaped like chapel windows with three swinging bells inside, were put up for the first time.

The new decorations which were purchased by the Jaycees have since been sold to the city. Some of the decorations used in past years also were put up.

For several years the city has followed a policy of not putting up Christmas decorations until after the Thanksgiving holiday.

At Oshkosh, which has 33,132 square feet, the total rent would come to $36,433; Appleton, 35,218 square feet, $52,205; Neenah, 11,200 square feet, $23,550.

It was suggested by Sirek that at Menasha the board lease the office space for the local area coordinator and any space used full-time for vocational classes, as can be negotiated.

Waupaca Leaders to Suggest List of Vocational Courses

Education, Business, Industry Representatives Form Committee To Work Closely With District

WAUPACA — A committee of entering city government, or education, business and industry those who would want to become trial representatives met Monday more familiar with the functions day with a Vocational Technical of government on the local level, and Adult Education District 12 A course in law enforcement for (VTE-12) official to discuss what members of area police department education courses would be recommended by Rasmussen who was informed that such a course already is being planned at the Neenah adult education center.

Effective Jan. 1, a long list of courses will be offered at the adult education centers already established in Fox Valley cities, but others will be held throughout the VTE-12 district providing there is a need, and a large enough enrollment. James Malotke, area coordinator for VTE-12 told the committee.

Monday's meeting, the first for the Waupaca group, was designed to obtain information on what type of courses should be offered to the people of the Waupaca area. Members of the committee are Roman Danielsen, guidance director of Waupaca High School, chairman; Everett Anderson, representing the agricultural area, secretary; LaVern Nelson and Donald Brunner, Waupaca Foundry; Iver Oertter, city engineer; Fred Rasmussen, chief of police; Mayor Lloyd Matheson; Fred Mannel, representing business; John Morgan, high school vocational education instructor; George Hendrickson, superintendent of the Waupaca School System, and Mrs. Irma Olson, Zwicker Knitting Mills.

Amherst Sets Hearing on 1968 Budget

Village Spending Package Estimated At $36,505

AMHERST — A tax rate of about .825 per $1,000 equalized valuation for a proposed $36,505 village budget, $949 more than the current figure will be considered for adoption at a public hearing at 7 p.m. today in the village hall.

The rate for the present $35,556 budget was $62.58 per $1,000 valuation assessed at 40 to 50 per cent of full value. The village is assessing property at 100 per cent valuation for the 1968 budget, according to Clerk Raymond Tojima.

The proposed tax levy is $16,700, an increase of about $1,000 from last year's $15,743. Revenue is estimated at $19,805. This, coupled with the proposed tax levy of $16,700, will produce the $36,505 proposed budget.

Expenditures include $6,976 for general government; $8,400 for protection of persons and property; $4,500, health and sanitation; $8,365, highways, streets and sidewalks; $1,632, education; $1,000 recreation; $1,145, indebtedness, interest and loans, and $500 unclassified.

A copy of the complete proposed budget will be available at the hearing.

The meetings are cooperative, planned and one was held in each of the other districts earlier.

Dr. Burton Kretlow, director of research at the University of Wisconsin, will review discussions from earlier sessions and a film on "Community Schools Can't Stand Still" will show the consolidation of two Dane County schools.

Following this meeting the three school boards will set a date to evaluate their findings, considering their obligation to each district and the petitioners seeking to leave the Stockbridge District in favor of the Chilton District, who proposed action pending the outcome of the evaluation.

Both cars were demolished.

Legislative Responsibility

There has been a disturbing tendency in the administrative establishment at Madison recently to resist the constitutional authority of the state legislature to watch over the operations of state programs and services that are financed with tax dollars for which the people hold their legislative representatives accountable.

An example is the indignant, almost rebellious, protest from the state Conservation Commission because some legislators have proposed a review of their record of performance in the huge recreational lands acquisition program that began about six years ago.

We suspect that there may be some intramural politics involved here. Some members of the legislature as is widely known around the capitol, are not fond of some members of the Conservation Commission. Some members of the commission reciprocate such hostile sentiments, with respect to some members of the legislature. Some members of the legislature tend to sound off under circumstances that indicate they are more interested in personal publicity, or in punitive action against certain commissioners, than in doing their jobs with diligence and detachment.

But with all those reservations conceded, let there be no doubt about this:

The legislature has the power and the duty to examine the performance of the administrative services, including the ranking appointive officials such as Conservation Commissioners.

The current row involves a pending legislative resolution that would apply a moratorium to recreational land purchases or leases for six months, to permit the legislature to make the study of the record that Mr. Alfonsi and others have proposed.

We see no reason why there should be a pause in the program. It could easily be harmful, as the conservation officials have said. Scores of options may expire. Dozens of negotiations may falter, if landowners are asked to wait for half a year for a decision from the agency that has made them offers for the leasing or purchase of desirable properties. Unless the authors of the moratorium resolution can show some wrong-doing — and they will have the opportunity to show what they know when the public hearing is held early in December — they could make their study in the legislative interim without requiring such an awkward pause in the normal performance of the department. If they then find something seriously wrong, and we doubt that they will, they will have the power to impose their own remedies.

Each recent legislature has recessed subject to recall by a vote of its members, and there is every indication that this is the plan of the current legislature also.

Financing the New Technical School

Unfortunately, the new Area Vocational, Technical and Adult Education District No. 12 (VTE-12) finds itself knee-deep in controversy throughout the four-county area because of the fiscal policy it has adopted for 1968 and intends to project over future years.

While it is laudable for the Board to want to adopt a pay-as-you-go program to expedite the construction of a new multimillion dollar area Vocational, Technical and Adult Education School, the practicality of such an action appears to be in question considering the protest which has erupted throughout the district.

There are two sides to the issue with the Board contending it has to set aside funds from the annual tax rate assessment so as to have matching funds on hand when federal and state aids become available, and to build the new school with a minimum of bonding to save 15 or 20 years of interest payments.

The vehement objectors say they are for accelerated vocational and technical training but at the same time claim the $660,000 earmarked for site acquisition and future construction should be classified as long-range capital improvements and underwritten by a bond issue rather than "nailing" the taxpayers public over the next few years for facilities which will be used for many years to come.

In rebutting the contention that money will be saved by not having to pay as much interest on bonds, critics of the board's policy point to the fact that if this is to be the case — then all school construction should be put on a pay-as-you-go basis.

At any rate, the recent reaction of close to 100 municipal officials in cities, towns and villages in the district in discussing a taxpayers' suit to contest the Board's plan for using a portion of its annual budget for long-term improvements should serve a useful purpose.

There is no doubt but that considerable ill-feeling exists toward the Board and this could jeopardize the overall vocational educational setup in the future unless the air is cleared once and for all. The litigation could serve this purpose.

The British Defense Cut-Back

When the British government announced its devaluation of the pound there was a companion announcement. The British also plan to cut back their defense spending in the hope of restoring economic order.

It was to be expected that the first announcement would get more attention than the second. But the defense spending reduction already has been made. To the cheers of the House of Commons, the British military budget was cut by about $240 million, about five per cent of the budget total. Prime Minister Wilson told the House this would bring defense spending down to levels projected for 1970.

But there were cries in the House for more. Members shouted demands for cancelling the order for the American swing-wing F-111. This deal already is in jeopardy from the English standpoint because of the congressional over-ruling of the manner in which exclusive purchase of minisweepers now built in the United States was promised to England as part of the F-111 purchases.

A good part of the cut in the British defense budget will be in purchases made from the United States, particularly for aircraft. This is going to require some American economic realignment. But what is more important is that there will have to be some foreign policy revisions because of British withdrawal from joint defense commitments.

The British already had decided that, quite apart from policy considerations, their economy could no longer support commitments "east of Suez." The British, thanks to President de Gaulle of France, have been getting the cold shoulder for their application to join the Common Market. Now, the need to further retrench the economy will result in pullbacks from the defense plan for Western Europe.

The need for careful American help to improve the British economy is obvious for many reasons, including the pragmatic one of maintaining the defense alliance for Western Europe. But the British retreat from its commitment because of economic weakness means that the United States must plug the gap.

The further drain on the American economy for defense dollars illustrates again the mistake of the headlong plunge into Vietnam when there were commitments which must be maintained in more important parts of the world against our chief competitor, the Soviet Union. It is a situation which demands correction even more now because of the changes in British policy.

'Tall Walking,' Says Crescent

100 YEARS AGO
Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for Nov. 23, 1867.

The Milwaukee News gives an account of a wonderful feat in the way of walking, performed by Hasse Hassel, a Welshman.

He walked, the newspaper stated, from Portage City to Milwaukee in 24 consecutive hours on a bet of $100.

He won it easily, with 40 minutes to spare.

The distance by railroad is 95 miles, and it must exceed 100 miles by actual road measurement.

Hassel is Welsh by birth; 21 years old; weighs 130 pounds, and measures 5 feet, 10 inches in height.

Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Nichols, Appleton, were co-chairmen of the Thanksgiving dance called "The Turkey Trot" of the Menasha Club.

Resume Phone Service

NEW DELHI (AP) — For the first time in more than two years, it is again possible to place a telephone call or send a telegram between India and Pakistan.

All Wilson Has to Do to Save England Is Crack Down on Labor

BY WILLIAM F. BUCKLEY, JR.

The British Prime Minister is technically secure until 1971, that is to say he cannot be kicked out by the electorate, only by his own party, and that is unlikely. Unlikely because the only people within the Socialist Party who any longer talk as though they knew what to do are the far-lefters, who continue to cling to all luridities of socialist dogma. But they are not a majority.

Buckley

Talk about a credibility gap. Harold Wilson is undoubtedly the world's most unbelievable politician. Indeed, one could have made a handsome living over the past three years betting on the opposite of everything Harold Wilson has uttered, whether on Rhodesia, the Common Market, economic controls, or — most recently — the value of the pound. What the bitter-end British socialists have long since begun to suspect is that Mr. Wilson no longer shares their dreams.

People's Forum

Days of Cheap Food Policy Are Numbered

Editor, Post-Crescent:

In regard to the story "Farming Yesterday and Today," I agree the change has been gradual, much like the gradual change in the pricing structure of the farmer's products.

In the past the farmers all worked together to harvest grain, fill silos, saw wood and many other types of work around the farm.

The farmers even had their own homespun recreation, such as barn dances, regular visits from one neighbor to the other.

There was the one room school, where the children received an education, the Christmas programs and the school picnics, so many things that our young people of today are missing.

There was also a wood shed on every farm which served as a place for discipline as well as wood. These good old days are gone, we'll all have to agree, as corporate structures move in and are getting a foothold. But

That is largely true, for the very good reason that Harold Wilson has participated in power, and having done so, knows how unprofitable socialist dogma in fact is. So that when he saw the British economy begin to stagger (last year the British suffered a trade deficit of 350-million pounds, to be compared with a trade surplus during the 50's of one-billion pounds), he had to turn to orthodoxy, to what they call Austerity. That meant higher taxes, a diminution in government spending, and wage freezes. The deflationary consequence of these measures resulted in unemployment (2.4 per cent), which it is the principal concern of socialism forever to eliminate.

The socialist backbenchers, led by Michael Foot and Clive Jenkins, set up a most fearful howl, to which Harold Wilson tended to reply by reminding his socialist brethren of the exigencies of the real situation and swearing again his eternal allegiance to the only temporarily deserted principles of socialism. He sounded like Lenin defending the New Economic Policy in 1922, or Ayn Rand using state funds to give a hot lunch to school children.

And now the devaluation of the pound is announced as a "solution" to England's difficulties, which of course it is not. Mr. Callaghan, who is Mr. Wilson's economic minister, warned as recently as last summer, in a speech in which he promised never ever to devalue the pound; that devaluation was of no consequence whatever if Englishmen are simply to proceed to raise prices by the same percentage as the devaluation.

In order that England might compete in the world markets, she must produce goods more cheaply, it is as easy as that; as hard as that, considering England's principal difficulty which, not unlike our own, is the high cost of production under the back-breaking overhead of labor union practices. And how is a Labor Government going to crack down on labor unions?

Here is a recent description, by Mr. Victor Riesel, of the process of making a portlight in an English shipbuilding concern. "In most shipbuilding yards around the world," says Mr. Riesel, "one man, perhaps two, make such a portlight. Here this has happened. First a shipwright marks the position of the portlight. A burner (acetylene torch welder) cuts the opening. A caulker 'dresses' it. A driller drills and fits the frame. A brass fits the deadlight. Then a joiner (or driller) fits the deadlight hook to the linings of the steel deckhead. One such operation may be all that one of these men will do for hours, since he must wait for the others to start and finish." There are, in England 200,000 shop stewards! In proportion to the population, that would make 750,000 shop stewards in the United States. Not even the poverty program could afford such a drain.

And so Mr. Wilson will probably continue to hover between socialist dogma and reality. What a pity. When all he needs to do is try to free up the economy, in slow but steady stages. How sorely he needs Professor Milton Friedman! His address is University of Chicago, Chicago, Ill. 60632.

Wisconsin Report

Forest Crop Land Dispute Blown Out Of All Proportion

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON — There will be a wailing and a wave of indignation among the automatic followers of the State Conservation Department line in response to the decision of Acting Gov. Jack B. Olson to sign into law the legislative enactment slightly changing the rules governing the relations of counties and the Conservation Commission in the cooperative forest crop lands program.

Wyngaard

The issue is an important one. The two million acres of county forest represent one of the finest of the achievements in Wisconsin natural resources management during the last 30 years. No person with any regard for the fundamentals of natural resources protection or the need of a sound forest program would consciously support any measure to damage the state-county cooperative enterprise, not to mention destroy it, as some excitable persons believe is now possible.

ISSUE NOT UNDERSTOOD

But the issue is also and unfortunately not widely understood.

In point of fact, the counties are the owners of the lands in the forestry effort that are managed for long-range productivity in a financial partnership with the state. Most of the lands are those which the counties took over as tax delinquent long ago.

During succeeding years, the state has supported the effort out of forestry funds, for management and improvement, and from general funds, in payments to the localities in lieu of the taxes that would have been paid had they remained under private ownership.

The contract between a forest-owning county and the State Conservation Commission provides for withdrawal of parcels of those lands when they can be devoted to a higher use, at the initiative of the county, and with the consent of the commission. Mostly such withdrawals, never numerous, have been arranged amicably enough.

PROPOSAL CAUSES TROUBLE

But a proposal of Juneau County, in the economically distressed north central district, to withdraw some 4,000 acres of its huge holdings in order to encourage a commercial vegetable production operation and to invite the location of a local processing plant in an area of chronic unemployment brought a bitter, snarling and prolonged quarrel between the county board and the commission.

Area representatives appealed to the Legislature. The Legislature responded with an act providing for an independent review committee in the event of such disagreements. Thus it is clear, contrary to some charges about the incident, that there is yet no assurance that Juneau County, or any other county that wants to change its mind about growing trees and devote some of its lands to other desirable uses, will be released from its contract. It will be required to make a convincing case.

The interested sideline who cannot profess expertise can only listen as carefully as he can to the conflicting arguments, which this reporter has tried to do. One impression is that the Conservation Commission was unnecessarily brusque and suspicious in its handling of the dispute with Juneau County. Another impression is that there is an unfortunately widespread conviction that elected officials, such as those of Juneau County, are somehow less to be trusted in such matters than the appointive bureaucracy.

Conversely, Wilbur Alexander and the other men in Juneau County — whose credentials as conservationists were widely accepted until their collision with the official establishment — would be well advised to proceed with caution and discretion if they win their case before the review committee. The withdrawal of a lesser tract than the 4,000 acres that has been talked about might be expedient, for example, as a kind of trial of the practicability of their hopes for local economic expansion and development.

Strictly Personal

Femme Fatale Is Created by Men

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS

A reader in San Francisco writes to say that sometime within the last few years, I wrote a column about the Femme Fatale type of woman. "This type of woman, according to the column," the letter went on, "has a heart of stone, and is cruelly beguiling. She has the power to cause men to fall into her trap time after time."

Harris

The reader asks that I send him the date of that column so that he might look it up in the files and make a photocopy of it. But he has me confused with someone else — I never wrote such a column, because I don't believe in women who have "the power to cause men to fall into her trap time after time."

As some Frenchmen said long before me, what we call woman's "irresistibility" is merely man's susceptibility. The spider simply sits and weaves her web; it is the fly that voluntarily comes into her parlor.

There are, of course, women who would like to be femmes fatales; but they are attractive only to men who are natural-born victims and losers. For every murderer, Aldous Huxley once remarked in a novel, there is a murderess — and the men who are ground to dust by women with "hearts of stone" are willing murderesses looking around for some misfortune to befall them.

The irresistibly enticing female is one of the male legends that men perpetuate in order to justify, rationalize, and explain their susceptibility and their need to be hurt and rejected. There are no innocent bystanders in matters of the heart; the unconscious goes after exactly what it wants — and if it wants to be cruelly beguiled, it will find an expert to do the job.

Moreover, the femme fatale is a pitiable object herself. She is incapable of loving men, of sustaining any person-to-person relationship with them, and her need to hurt is merely the obverse side of her deeply-buried desire to find a man who will dominate her. Her problem is that she despises the men who love her (for she knows how little she deserves it), and resents those who are not beguiled by her.

Nobody has a heart of stone, though many persons build stone fortresses around their hearts, for they desperately fear their own vulnerability. And anyone who spins a trap for another is deeply enmeshed in a lifelong trap of his own making. Both the spider and fly are involved in a deadly symbiosis.

The reader in San Francisco apparently feels sorry for himself, and wants to carry around a clipping to salve his wounds. But such wounds are self-inflicted, and nothing can heal a man who remains stone-prone.

Potomac Fever— by Jack Wilson

A psychologist says people riot because they feel inferior—they enjoy getting drunk with power on Molotov cocktails.

Mr. Johnson decided not to go to the governors' conference—thus becoming the first president to be taken for a sleigh ride on a ship he wasn't on.

New Jersey Governor Talks Tough on Riots

White House Likes Him Personally
But His Utterances Aren't Helpful

BY ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
WASHINGTON — Gov. Richard Hughes of New Jersey, who supports President Johnson down the line on all issues, is a favorite of the White House but not of members and staff of the president's riot commission. The commission is privately disturbed by Hughes's get-tough remarks about Negro militants and confident predictions that

Evans Novak

Newark will be riot-free next summer. In fact, the commission believes Newark is a critical trouble area and that the governor's comments are no help in changing that dangerous situation.

At issue is a newspaper interview given by Hughes at the height of the state legislative campaign (which ended with a Republican landslide). Hughes flatly predicted there would be no repetition of violence on the scale of the 1967 Newark riot. He made it clear he feels hardboiled police tactics will be the chief preventive.

If violence recurs, Hughes said, police and National Guard would move in hard and fast. His state, he added, is "going to be very unhealthy for shootings, riots, and violence."

Quite a different story is found in confidential oral reports by riot commission investigators. They describe Newark as probably the most dangerous city in the country, partly because of shortcomings in Mayor Hugh Addonizio's administration and partly because of tension between slum Negroes and the police.

One commission member told us that in no other 1967 riot city is hatred of local police so overriding as in Newark. For that reason, the riot commission would much prefer if the governor would stop pouring kerosene on the fire by bragging about police protection.

McClellan's Lagging Probe
Sen. John McClellan's investigation of big city riots has laid such an egg thus far that he has been having trouble getting the required two senators to attend meetings of his Senate Permanent Investigations Subcommittee.

Billed originally as the definitive congressional probe of last summer's devastating racial turmoil, the hearings simply haven't gotten off the ground. In a dozen days of hearings centered on Houston and Nashville, the investigation has been ignored by both press and senate, with the exception of last Wednesday's hearing.

Much of the blame lies with McClellan's overemphasis on new riot-control techniques, police tactics, and his desire to play down such fundamental aspects of riots as housing and jobs in Negro slums. This has cost him support he could have had from the subcommittee's liberal bloc.

The hearing last Wednesday was the only success the Arkansas senator has had in getting some headlines. Moreover, it took the intercession of a House Republican — Rep. George Bush of Texas — to convince McClellan and his staff that direct testimony should be taken from students involved in this year's riot at Texas Southern. McClellan had not planned to hear them at all.

Nixon's New Lieutenant
Attempting to shore up Richard M. Nixon's sagging right flank on Capitol Hill the last few weeks has been a Californian with impeccably ultra-conservative credentials: Donald L. Jackson, who was elected to Congress with Nixon in 1946 and served there 14 years.

Jackson has gone to work fulltime on the Nixon-for-President staff in Washington and has been spending each day on the house floor (where he has access as a former congressman) but-ton-holding Republicans — particularly conservatives drifting away to Gov. Ronald Reagan.

Jackson may be reassuring to right-leaning Republicans dismayed that the competent former Rep. Robert Ellsworth of Kansas, a prominent moderate in his house days, is running the Nixon campaign. But to moderates who thought Nixon was wooing them, Jackson seems a curious addition to his team.

After leaving Congress in 1961, Jackson became a star on the patriot lecture circuit. In December, 1962, he was quoted by Freedom Press, Glendale, Calif., as saying that he approved 90 per cent of the preaching of chief Birch Robert Welch and felt the John Birch Society was legal and meritorious. Membership in it, Jackson was quoted as saying, "is not a subject for review by the Republican party."

Jackson became executive director of the short-lived Anti-Addonizio's administration and Communist Voters League in 1962, conducted right-wing radio programs under the sponsorship of Dr. Ross Perot (owned by the late D. B. Lewis, a favorite angel of the right) in 1963-64, and instituted a newsletter called "Patriotic Preview" in 1965.

A footnote: Jackson's old boss was millionaire oilman Henry Salvatori, who supplied most of the financing for the Anti-Communist Voters League and now is one of the key money men backing Reagan for president. (Copyright, 1967)

Pet Cat Saves Owner From Blaze in House

VENETA, Ore. (AP) — Their house was destroyed by fire recently, but Mr. and Mrs. Carl Duke still consider themselves fortunate.

Mrs. Duke was awakened when the family cat jumped on a dozen days of hearings centered on Houston and Nashville, the investigation has been ignored by both press and senate, with the exception of last Wednesday's hearing.

By the time firemen arrived the house was a loss. Three other children were at a neighbor's house overnight and her husband was at work.

"That cat has a home in our family for the rest of its life," Mrs. Duke said.

Los Angeles to Start Paying for Overtime

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Police and firemen are going to get overtime pay in cash—at time and a half—after all.

City Council debated the question for four years before deciding to start the overtime pay on July 15, 1968. The 8,800 policemen and firemen in Los Angeles now are compensated by time off on a straight time basis for overtime work.

Appleton Captain Cited for Airmanship

U.S. Air Force Capt. Robert E. Jobe, whose parents are Mr. and Mrs. Thorwald J. Sherry, 1724 Hycrest Drive, has received the Air Medal at Udorn Royal AFB, Thailand, for air action in Southeast Asia.

Capt. Jobe was decorated for his meritorious achievement as an F-101 Voodoo pilot. He was cited for outstanding airmanship and courage on successful and important missions under hazardous conditions. He has flown 43 missions and now holds four Air Medals.

The captain, a graduate of Appleton High School, received a B.S. degree from Drake University, Des Moines, Iowa, in 1959 and was commissioned there after completion of the Reserve Officers Training Corps program.

His wife, Barbara, is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Howard O'Brian, 714 E. Eldorado St.

Army Pvt. Ronald C. Peterson, 22, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth D. Peterson, 116 Fourth St., Neenah, completed nine weeks of advanced infantry training Nov. 17, at Ft. Polk La. His last week of training was spent in guerrilla warfare exercises.

He lived under simulated Vietnam conditions for five days, fighting off night attacks and conducting raids on "enemy" villages. He was taught methods of removing booby traps, setting ambushes and avoiding enemy ambushes.

Fire control Technician Seaman Gary D. Fulcer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard E. Fulcer of 104 Ridgeway Drive, and husband of the former Sandra L. Olson, 5821 N. Richmond, man-made the rail aboard the guided missile frigate USS Jouett when President Johnson visited the nuclear powered aircraft carrier during the Veterans Day weekend. On completion of the presidential visit the Jouett returned to its homeport at San Diego, Cal.

Charles J. Hartzheim, 26, son of Mrs. Catherine Hartzheim, 316 Sarah St., Kaukauna, was promoted to Army Captain Nov. 4 while at Pleiku, Vietnam, serving as staff civil affairs officer.

Students Dislike Student Protests

LOS ANGELES (AP) — It was a demonstration against demonstrators at the University of California at Los Angeles campus.

A group of 550 students gathered Monday to say they don't support protests against the Dow Chemical Co., manufacturers of napalm used in Vietnam. "The reputation of our students and campus has again been damaged by a small number of demonstrators," said the organizers of the rally.

Six 'Welcome' Signs Erected in Village

LITTLE CHUTE — Six "Welcome" signs have been erected at various entrances to the village and service clubs and organizations are to attach individual club emblems.

Financing of the signs was done by the American Legion, began in the 20s and 30s. In Kiwanis Club and Businessmen's addition, more than 35 million Association while the Jaycees trees either have been planted made and painted signs as their for other persons on privately part of the project. The signs held lands, or have been given to were erected by village employ-

Four State 4-H's Win Scholarships

Four 4-H club members from Wisconsin have been named national winners in the 45th National Club Congress in Chicago.

They are Mary Belman, 18, Delevar, awarded a $500 scholarship in the national 4-H clothing program; Sandra Scott, 19, Caledonia, awarded a $500 scholarship in the national 4-H home improvement program; John Schmolsky, 17, Madison, awarded a $500 scholarship in the national 4-H tractor program.

Sharron Holloway, 18, route 2, Union Grove, winner of the Wisconsin's dress revue, will participate in today's National 4-H Dress Revue at the Congress with 51 other state and territorial representatives.

Last year Miss Holloway was selected as a state fair dress revue alternate.

Scouts Sending Christmas Trees To GIs in Vietnam

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — A troop of Jacksonville Boy Scouts figure Christmas trees with lights burning might offset draft card burnings, so they're sending 250 live pines to GIs in Vietnam.

Troop 55 sold American flags at $1 each to raise more than $700 for the trees. Jim Deluca, coordinator for the troop, arranged for the trees to be purchased in Japan and shipped to Da Nang.

Mrs. Deluca, who, like her husband served in the Air Force, said the boys decided to send the trees when they heard draft card burnings were damaging morale. "We picked Da Nang because we wanted the trees to go to the troops in the field," she said, and not "wind up in some officers' private offices."

Kiwanis to Learn Of Navy Programs

LITTLE CHUTE — John Reddy, commander of the Appleton Naval Reserve, will show a film on naval operations and discuss the reserve, Naval Academy and conduct a question and answer period at a Kiwanis Club luncheon at 6:15 tonight at Hammen's Restaurant.

Discussion will be held on the Lieutenant Governor conference caps from his 1967 model car to be held at Oakwood Hills while it was parked near his home sometime Saturday night. Key Club at the public high school in the village.

Maier Told of Convention Center Need

MILWAUKEE (AP) — A special committee reported to Mayor Henry Maier Monday night that the city needs a $15 million to $20 million "modern, competitive convention-exhibition complex" in its downtown area.

The committee, composed of business leaders and industrialists, said the state and county should join the city in paying for the complex, which ought to include a new 500 to 1,000 room convention hotel.

The group said the complex should consist of a modern multi-level, on completion of the 150,000 square feet of unobstructed main floor space; a new auditorium or a modernized version of the present building; food service facilities capable of accommodating up to 5,000 diners in a single area; and parking facilities connected to the complex by lighted and enclosed ramps.

Police Investigating Wheel Cover Thefts

LITTLE CHUTE — Donald Wegand, 130 Willow St., reported the theft of four wheel cover hub caps from his 1967 model car while it was parked near his home sometime Saturday night. No estimate of value was made.

Industrial Timberlands

Wisconsin Firms Add 1,366,000 Trees in '67

Special to The Post-Crescent
PARK FALLS — Paper and other forest products companies continued to add to Wisconsin's tree inventory the past year, planting another 1,366,000 seedlings on industrial timberlands. This raised to 90,643,000 the total of trees set out on their lands since organized planting began in the 20s and 30s. In Kiwanis Club and Businessmen's addition, more than 35 million Association while the Jaycees trees either have been planted made and painted signs as their for other persons on privately part of the project. The signs held lands, or have been given to were erected by village employ-

Figures were released today by Norman C. Hoefferle, vice president, Flambeau Paper Co., who is general chairman of the Wisconsin Paper Industry Information Service.

Hoefferle noted that planting obviously has leveled off from the peak of a few years ago, when between two and three million trees were being set out annually.

Successful Restoration
"Last year, it was revealed our spectacularly successful reforestation program has assured Wisconsin of a perpetual forest," he said. "From now on, it appears we will be concerned mainly with replacement plantings to maintain normal growth or to regenerate stricken areas."

The Park Falls executive noted that Wisconsin now continually adds to its tree reserves, with more timber being grown each year than is used for all commercial purposes.

Douglas County had the most plantings during the year, 490,000, followed by Ashland with 214,000. Bayfield County had 117,000, Oneida 115,000, and Lincoln 112,000.

British Would Welcome Cure For Ailments

As One Trouble Subsides, Another Comes Into View

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — The British once boasted that the sun never set on the British Empire but there are days now when British executives and government men must sigh with relief when dusk finally comes.

These are gray times for Britain, and the dark mists that now precede winter seem a symbol also of her trials. Her chronic ills demand one operation after another. And still the maladies persist.

One can go far back in history to find the root of some of today's ailments, among them, her loss of colonies, the cost and devastation of World War II, the loss of able men in war without an infusion through immigration.

Evil Spirits

But, whether cause or effect, some of her immediate problems today seem to surpass anything that could have been expected. They are like evil spirits, and it is understandable that British believe in ghosts.

Who could have predicted the damming of the Suez Canal through which much of Britain's trade was routed? Who could have foreseen the obstinate refusal of France to permit Britain to join and share in the trade benefits of the Common Market?

Who could have stated with any assurance just 15 years ago that Britain would lose some of her best brains, the brains needed to rebuild a nation drained abroad by financial and academic rewards?

Dockworker Strike

And what kind of madness in the British psyche was it that brought about a dockworker strike at the very time the country, in a battle for economic survival, needed to increase her exports to foreign lands?

The problems run a full range, including the tragicomic. A huge oil tanker burst off her shores and forced the nation to man her beaches, unsuccessfully this time, against a giant oil slick. Already on austerity, some British had to forego swimming as well.

And in the midst of her economic problems came the worst outbreak in history of foot and mouth disease, forcing the slaughter and burial of thousands of cattle, pigs, goats and sheep, a real setback for a nation already on austerity.

Who can say also, in this age of growing nationalism, that the demands by Scots and Welsh for more home rule are nothing but a humorous sidelight to history? Perhaps a growing domestic problem has been added to all the others.

Apparent Solutions

Even when determinedly face to face with her problems, willing to fight and solve them if possible, the apparent solutions sometimes lead to wound themselves in a dilemma.

Consider the export-import situation. In order to escape from her balance of payments problems—in order to increase her exports—Britain concluded that she would have to force her economy into expansion.

But, being a nation largely dependent on raw materials from abroad, she found also that as her production increased her imports, of all things, rose almost in proportion. And so she has had to slow down again and again.

Consider also the present dilemma over wages. In order to make Britain's economy competitive, Prime Minister Harold Wilson feels a bid must be kept on expenses, including wages. But another legal freeze on wages is politically repulsive, and so cannot be attempted.

In fact, the very purveyor of austerity, the present Labor government, cannot continue to admonish all Britishers to work harder and deny themselves without incurring, eventually, the wrath of the people.

Once the sun never set, and so forth. Now it is very, very foggy and summer is a very long time away.

Today in History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Tuesday, Nov. 28, the 322nd day of 1967. There are 33 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1520, the Portuguese navigator, Magellan, reached the Pacific Ocean after passing through the South American strait which now bears his name.

On this date: In 1895, the first U.S. auto race was held—on the road between Chicago and Waukegan, Ill., at an average speed of 7½ miles an hour.

In 1919, Lady Astor, the first woman to be seated in Britain's House of Commons, was elected.

In 1929, Lt. Comdr. Richard E. Byrd took off from his base in Antarctica to fly over the South Pole.

In 1942, nearly 500 persons died in a fire which destroyed the Coconut Grove night club in Boston.

Ten years ago — Vice President Richard M. Nixon replaced ailing President Dwight D. Eisenhower in bidding farewell to the visiting King of Morocco, Mohammed V.

Five years ago, the Soviet Union agreed to the election of U. Thant to a full term as U.N. secretary-general.

One year ago — Hungary's Communist party chief, Janos Kadar, accused Red China of disrupting the Communist world.

Nixon State Primary Favorite But Supporters Take No Chances

By JOHN WYNGAARD
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Every sign indicates that Richard Nixon is the early favorite to win the Wisconsin Republican presidential preference primary in the spring. But every indication also is that his campaign organization is leaving nothing to chance, and has plenty of financial muscle to use in the fight.

The fact that the Nixon organization has recruited successfully among some of the most effective men and women who worked in the two successful gubernatorial campaigns of Gov. Knowles has been widely noted. But that does not mean that Knowles is committed to the former vice president. It merely means that he has no intention of standing in the way of those campaign aides of 1964 and 1966 whose services he valued so highly.

Knowles almost surely has a personal preference for the top nomination on the ticket next year, but, as a practical man, he will avoid a direct involvement in what may be a classically competitive battle here next spring. Under such circumstances, he could only damage his own position by indicating his personal preference for the presidential nomination.

A trend for more direct involvement in politics by special interest professional groups and others is becoming more evident.

Twice in the last fortnight this reporter was asked by influential statewide organizations to discuss the opportunities and methods for their members to essay direct involvement in the political process.

Now comes the Wisconsin Education Association, by a long margin the largest of the professional societies in Wisconsin, with an announcement that it is considering a more direct political action program. Some critics may ask why, since the organization is already counted as one of the most potent in legislative relations.

There will be further delay in the selection of a new president of Wisconsin State University — River Falls, to succeed E. H. Kleinpell, who resigned.

The regents' selection committee is evidently encountering some difficulties in finding the kind of man wanted to run the western Wisconsin school. As a consequence an acting administrator may remain in charge for some time.

The University of Wisconsin has a long tradition of service to the state as a whole, beyond its academic role, and likes to boast about it. University specialists the UW Law School.

Observers saw three University of Wisconsin officials in the Washington audience when President Johnson recently signed the act intended to put the national government behind a movement for creation of a national non-commercial and educational television network.

But there has been no sign that this legislature, at least, is inclined to put the state into the proposed federal TV partnership, whatever may be resolved in the future.

Self-depreciation is one of the devices of the public speaker in winning the attention and the friendly interest of a strange audience. Director Donald McDowell of the state department of agriculture, for example, likes to launch his speeches with the remark:

"Now you're going to hear the dope from Madison."

If the Republican convention next year finds that it will be able to endorse a candidate for attorney general who will run against an untied Democratic nominee — in the event that a Atty. Gen. Bronson LaFollette runs for governor, for example — it may have trouble ignoring the claims of John Olson of Medford and Louis Ceci of Milwaukee, who were willing to challenge LaFollette last year, in the presidential primary campaign here next spring which and convention backing made an aggressive campaign
